Axis Collaberation—The citizenry of Padua, capital of the Province of Padua in northern Italy, turn out to welcome hundreds of German troops ... greeting the warriors with the Fascist salute. The Germans leading the way wear the insignia of the Nazi Air Force ... and are now seeing action with Il Duce's forces in the Mediterranean theater of war.

NAZIS IN ALL-OUT CASH AT SHIPS

BERLIN, Feb. 26 (AP)—Authorized German sources said that fighting planes of the Luftwaffe bombed and set afire three British cargo ships totalling 21,000 tons northwest of Ireland early today. German fliers reported they observed the ships sinking.

ON CANAL PATROL—A Nazi artilleryman stands alert behind his anti-aircraft gun on a motor-propelled vessel . . . during patrol down a canal in Flanders, Belgium. The scene is typical of German-occupied countries, where almost daily British planes blast away at military objectives.

Cape, Devens Camps Cost Up 31 Million

WASHINGTON, Feb. 26 (AP)—Blizzards, blitzkriegs and increased costs for labor and materials boosted the cost of Camp Edwards and Fort Devens, Mass., nearly $31,000,000 above original estimates, the Army informed Congress today.

Although the Army previously estimated Devens would cost $12,474,061, the final estimate as of Jan. 9, 1941, was $25,188,943, and Edwards, originally estimated at $10,515,475, jumped to $28,000,097.

Erig-Gen. Erichon B. Somervell, chief of the quartermaster corps, told the House appropriations subcommittee the Army had estimated the cost for the camps by using the cost per man to be housed at the camp.

In reply to questioning, he said estimates were made blindly and that preliminary surveys had not been made before funds were sought from Congress for the camps.

LABOR COSTS MOUNTED

"The whole essence of this thing is to have proper plans," Somervell remarked. He estimated that "if we could have had a small sum for plans prior to this time, I think I can say conservatively we would have saved $100,000,000." (For the national cantonment program.)

The Massachusetts camp revelations came as an outlay of $1,533,439,702 in cash and contract authorizations for the Army and Navy was recommended by the committee. The sum included funds to develop naval aviation outposts in the Pacific islands of Guam and Samoa.

In addition to money for a vast expansion of its shore bases, the Navy's $838,321,702 share of the total included funds to start construction of 400 submarine chasers and other small craft and to make

A Nazi speedboat sank a British destroyer off the southeast coast of England, the German high command said. It also credited Nazi submarines with destruction of an 8000-ton armed merchant ship and a British patrol boat in the stepped-up offensive against Britain's supply lines.

German warplanes, the daily communicate also said, set two large merchant ships afire in a British-occupied harbor in Libya and scored bomb hits on port facilities. A British plane was reported shot down over Malta.

Informed sources previously had identified the port of Tobruk and said the damaged vessels included a 10,000-ton British munitions ship and another merchant vessel of equal size.

Port facilities at Hull, Harwich and Great Yarmouth in England were battered by small combat units of the German Air Force last night, the high command declared. Airports in eastern England and armaments factories at Ipswich and Norwich also were reported attacked.

GERMAN AREA BOMBED

The Germans acknowledged that British warplanes had dropped incendiary and explosives last night on western Germany, but said the bombs were loosed at random and damage was "insignificant." One raider was said to have been shot down by anti-aircraft batteries.

Virtual submarine novices—young commanders and crews in brand new undersea boats, who went into action for the first time—were credited in information reaching Berlin today with sinking 192,300 tons of convoyed shipping from Sunday noon until Monday evening.

The German high command reported yesterday the sinking of more than a quarter million tons "in the past few days"—45,000 tons by surface raiders and 208,000 tons by submarines. The German claim was disputed in London by a naval spokesman, who said "nothing extraordinary had happened in the sea warfare recently."

The feat, part of the action announced proudly by Hitler Monday when he also declared the real submarine campaign would be under

Congressmen to See Test of New Weapons

WASHINGTON, Feb. 26 (AP)—The Army's newest tanks and anti-aircraft and other guns will be demonstrated Friday at the Aberdeen Proving Ground, Md., to members of the Senate and House military affairs committees.

The Congressmen will be shown, the War Department said, a light tank controlled by radio, and firing by 37 millimeter and three-inch anti-aircraft guns, the Garand rifle, mortars, machine guns, anti-tank guns, tanks and scout cars.

Britain Occupation Seen Hitler Aim in New U-Boat Drive

By PIERRE J. HUSS

International News Service Staff Correspondent

BERLIN, Feb. 26—Today's report of a running battle between German U-boats and British warships revealed that apparently the starting gun has been fired in Hitler's submarine campaign aimed at "occupation" instead of mere invasion of England.

On the basis of Hitler's speech at Munich on Monday, when he told of German plans to destroy the British navy and starve out England by means of new type U-boats, this correspondent today canvassed German naval and neutral sources for details of the Nazi campaign.

First of all, I found that the new German navy has an ominous slogan to compare with the "Spurlos Versenkt" (sunk without a trace) of World War days. The Nazi byword is "Gersunken. Auf Todesfahrt," which means "sunk on the ride to death."

NAZI SUBMARINES OFF TO WAR ON BRITISH SHIPS Germany Begins "All-Out" War on Convoys

It recalls Hitler's warning in his speech of January 30 that any and all vessels, carrying aid to Britain and coming before the torpedo tubes of German U-boats, would be sunk without hesitation. The Fuehrer's obvious warning was that any ships attempting to break the German blockade would be embarking upon a "ride to death."

RAEDER MAPS DRIVE

Secondly, three of Hitler's most trusted naval aides have laid the foundations of a gigantic submarine campaign. Primarily, it is designed to duplicate below and on the surface of the sea the devastating attacks of the Luftwaffe which had their most effective example in the razing of Coventry.

"Unless Britain is able quickly to devise some effective counter-attack," one spokesman said in summing up the general Nazi viewpoint, "the time may come before the end of the summer when not invasion but actual occupation of England is probable." The men responsible for planning the U-boat campaign are headed by Grand Admiral Erich Raeder, who as long as 26 years ago sponsored a "mosquito navy" designed for lightning thrusts to achieve maximum results with minimum losses.

Hitler quickly recognized the virtues of this policy, it was said, and consequently made Raeder his naval keyman. Nazi authorities late Raeder far above the late Admiral von Tripp of World War fame in naval tactics and originality.

BASES AID PLANS

After Raeder comes Rear Admiral Karl Doenitz, commander-in-chief of the German undersea fleet. He served on a ship of the line in the World War and later as a U-boat commander in the Mediterranean.

Third is Comdr. Guenther Prien, the almost fabulous U-boat commander who early in the war penetrated the formidable British defenses at Scapa Flow and sank the battleship Royal Oak. He recently has been transferred from active U-boat duty to head a specialized training school.

Assisting him are a number of

Probe Killing In Boudoir at House Party

MANHASSET, N. Y., Feb. 26 (INS)—With the alleged slayer under arrest, police today investigated the house party murder of John Gormley, 34-year-old riding academy proprietor, who was found shot dead last night in the bedroom of a wealthy Long Island matron.

Summoned to the palatial $30,000 residence of Mrs. Mary Gerken, 38, at Russell Gardens, L. I., by an urgent phone call—"send the cops up here—I just shot a man"—police reported the seizure of Thomas Gallagher, 31, a former gas station owner and recent employee of the Brooklyn Navy Yard.

Gormley, owner of riding academies in Flushing, Queens and Great Neck, and reported friend of Grover Whalen, was found sprawled on the floor of the master bedroom. Gallagher, police said, handed over a .38 calibre revolver and confessed the shooting. He was charged with homicide.

Gormley was shot, according to police, when he sought to break down the locked door of a bedroom occupied by Mrs. Gerken, wife of a retired automobile dealer, who had been hostess at an all-day drinking party, and Gallagher.

SELF-DEFENSE

"It was self defense," Gallagher said as police took him to the Mineola station.

Husband of the party hostess, Edward R. Gerken, nephew of the late Edward A. Rieley, the eccentric millionaire who was mysteriously slain in 1933 in his underground office on New York's lower East Side, was said by police to be in Florida.

Police said Gormley went to the Gerken house early yesterday in the company of James Wallace, 45, one of his riding masters. The trio reportedly spent the day drinking and in the evening Gallagher, whose wife also is in Florida, came to call.

Inspector Harold R. King, chief of Nassau County detectives, said that Gallagher told him he went up to Mrs. Gerken's bedroom to use the phone. Mrs. Gerken followed him, he said, and soon afterwards he heard Gormley coming up the stairs.

LOCKED DOOR

Fearing that there might be trouble, Gallagher was reported to have said that he locked the door. Gormley demanded entrance and said he would seek down the door. Gallagher said he fired when the riding academy proprietor lunged into the room. One bullet ripped through his abdomen.

Slain Scientist's Pal Fears OGPU

NEW YORK, Feb. 26 (INS)—The murder of Col. Michael Borislevsky was engineered by the Soviet secret police, Col. Fedor Maybohn, White Russian leader and friend of the slain military scientist, charged today.

Maybohn scoffed at police theories that Borislevsky, who was found shot to death behind the wall of an uptown convent on Sunday night, was a Harlem holdup victim. He said:

"We have to face it, Borislevsky was not murdered for robbery—but by his Soviet enemies. And since I worked side by side with Borislevsky, I fear my assassination is next."

Police made no comment on Maybohn's statement. Officers of the FBI refused to confirm or deny reports New York police had asked them to join the murder probe.

Hub Lawyer Weds Canadian Girl in Virginia

Climaxing an international romance at Washington, Edward Hutchins Hickey, Boston lawyer, attached to the Department of Justice criminal division at the Capital, was married Tuesday, it was learned here today, to Miss Ragnhild Tait of Montreal.

Hickey and the Canadian girl, who is employed at the Canadian legation in Washington, were married at St. Charles' Church in Clarendon, Va., by the Rev. John A. Curran.

Miss Ingrid Tait, sister of the bride was maid of honor, and Neil Connor of Hartford, was best man. After the ceremony the couple left for a Florida honeymoon.

The bridegroom, son of Mrs. Mary C. Hickey of Boston, was graduated from Harvard in 1933 and from Harvard Law School in 1936. He practiced law in Boston before joining the Department of Justice in 1938.

His bride is the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. John Tait of Montreal. She received her education at McGill University, where she was graduated in 1935, and the London School of Economics and the Zimmerman School of International Relations at Geneva.

$6500 Court Clerkship To Lynch

Speculation as to who would get the clerkship of the Boston municipal court was ended today with the surprise appointment by Governor Saltonstall of his chief secretary, Daniel J. Lynch, of Belmont.

Lynch, who is 37 years old, fills the vacancy left by the death of William D. Collins. He will get a salary of $6500 a year and the appointment is for life.

Lynch is Dorchester-born, a graduate of South Boston High School, Boston College, '25, and B. U. Law School, '28.

The opposition had been organized by State Democratic Chairman William H. Burke, when reports were in circulation that Carroll L. Meina, utilities chairman and former executive secretary, or Executive Councilor Clayton L. Haverly might get the call.

Clerk-designate Lynch is married and father of three girls and a boy. He makes his home in Louise rd., Belmont, and has been associated with Gov. Saltonstall since the latter was speaker of the House, a dozen years ago.

It was considered likely that Joseph Cotton of Lexington, former Senate president and former utilities chairman, would succeed Lynch, who had been chief secretary only two months. Cotton is at present counsel for the governor at a salary of $5000. The secretaryship pays $6000.

Another surprise came in replacement of Mrs. Grace Hartley Howe of Fall River, widow of the late Presidential Secretary Louis McHenry Howe, on the board of trustees for the Bristol County Agricultural School, Frank Horton of Rehoboth received this appointment.

Philip O'Brien of Holyoke, 42, Phi Beta Kappa graduate of Yale and Yale Law School, was named as special justice for the Holyoke district court to succeed Judge Joseph W. Lewandowski, deceased.

John Dudley of Sutton was appointed to the Purgatory Chasm State Reservation Commission in place of Herbert L. Ray, also deceased, and Mary C. Mahony of Newton was reappointed as trustee for the Hospital Cottages for Children.

SANITY TESTS ORDERED FOR LOVE NOTE BURGLAR

Rarely does a judge have a man accused of breaking and entering and larceny in the night time insist he is guilty, but Judge Thomas H. Connelly of Brighton court encountered just such a case today.

JOAN LESLIE

Before him was George A. DePass, of Pearl st., Watertown, 51-year-old bachelor. DePass, police said, climbed through a window into the bedroom of his one-time sweetheart, Miss Susan Pratt, of Princella rd., Brighton, 40-year-old brunette.

DePass' idea, Special Officers Michael Cullinane and Roy Reimer quoted him as saying, was to get back some love letters he had written to Miss Pratt in happier bygone days.

But it seems that instead some letters belonging to the woman's brother were missing together with some family photographs.

Furthermore, the officers explained, a full-length newspaper photograph of entrancing Joan Leslie, 16-year-old Hollywood "find of the year," was left behind. Joan's picture was in an abbreviated rubber bathing suit and the caption described her as "five feet four, 118 pounds, with hazel eyes and auburn hair."

On the margin of the newspaper clipping were the words, allegedly in DePass' handwriting:

"Sue—This is the type I go for. (Signed) Frenchie."

Below was written "4:30 a. m." "Frenchie" is DePass' nickname, Miss Pratt told police.

While neither she nor the defendant testified, Miss Pratt was quoted by Officers Cullinane and Reimer as saying she wanted DePass to go to jail. She gave the alarm yesterday morning, but police arrived at her home too late. It so happened she wasn't sleeping in her own bed at the time.

Judge Connelly was rather nonplussed at DePass' eagerness to enter a guilty plea for an offense that could carry a long sentence, but Special Officer Cullinane stepped up and volunteered:

"I think, your honor, maybe this man should be examined." Judge Connelly thought so, too, and ordered the case continued until March 12, with bail at $2000 and some mental tests for DePass in the meantime.

4 Devens Bans Cuss Words, Cash Deals

While Fort Devens posted orders against cussing and entering into any financial transactions with draftees, Camp Edwards, home of the Yankee Division, prepared to receive the first 300 of a special quota of 9100 young men.

Instead of being shipped to Fort Devens, the rookies were being sent directly from induction stations to Camp Edwards, where they become members of the YD of World War fame.

After Saturday, it was expected that Camp Edwards will be ready to handle at least 300 men a day. Within a month, the YD is expected to be brought up to wartime strength, about 18,000.

INDUCTION TONIGHT

Meanwhile the First Motor Squadron of the First Corps Cadets, comprising 235 enlisted men and 24 officers in the first unit to enter the new State Guard, will be inducted formally into the service at the Cadet armory tonight at 6:30. A parade will follow.

The order on using profane language at Fort Devens was inspired by complaints from the draftees or their relatives, it was indicated. The order read:

"All soldiers of this command are directed to refrain from using any abusive language, cussing, or obscenity in the presence of selective service men. The use of such language has evoked complaints and is unbecoming, unnecessary and detrimental to good order and discipline. It indicates a lack of proper leadership qualities in persons who so offend."

The order on financial transactions read: "No soldier of this command will accept any money for payment of service, whether as gifts, tips or charges from selective service soldiers. Neither will members of this command engage in any financial transactions, either in buying or selling, with transient selective service personnel."

No further explanations were advanced by Army officers, but it was understood the action was taken to prevent possibility of regular borrowing money from the draftees who may remain at the camp only a few days and thus possibly never get their money back.

White to Speak On 'Eire and War'

Chairman Joseph C. White of the Boston School Committee will speak on "Ireland and the War" at the Parker Hill Branch of the Boston Public Library tomorrow evening, under the auspices of the WPA Community Recreation Project of Boston.

Admission is free and there will also be a musical program.

JOHN J. CAVANAUGH AND EDWARD NAHASS
Son of Late B. C. Coach Enlists in Marine Corps

MAJ. CAVANAUGH'S SON, 25, ENLISTS IN MARINE CORPS

John J. Cavanaugh, 25-year-old son of the late Maj. Frank W. Cavanaugh, famed football coach of Fordham and Boston College, enlisted in the United States Marine Corps today.

Cavanaugh was one of several young men accepted by the Marines in its present recruiting drive to build up the strength of the Corps.

"I'm not going to quit when my four years are up," young Cavanaugh said. "The Marine Corps always appealed to me and I'm going to stay in it as long as I can."

John is one of three Cavanaugh sons. Dave, the oldest, who played football at Fordham under his father, is Connecticut manager of New England News, and Paul, youngest, is a 19-year-old student at Mission High School.

Among the others enlisting today was Edward Nahass, 22, son of Mr. and Mrs. Adolph Nahass of Rice st., Wellesley Hills, baseball and hockey captain at Wellesley High School in 1936-1937.

His older brother, Paul, 24, who was chosen All-Scholastic football player by the Boston Evening American when he was captain and left halfback of the Wellesley High School football team in 1933, is now with the Canadian air force, training to become an observer.

Cavanaugh has been living with his family in Elm st., Brookline.

Earle to Stay, F. D. Declares

WASHINGTON, Feb. 26 (AP)—President Roosevelt told reporters there was no possibility he knew of that George H. Earle, U. S. minister to Bulgaria, might be recalled.

Referring to an incident in a Sofia restaurant involving Earle and an unidentified German, a reporter inquired:

"Have you received any report on the battle of the bottles in the Balkans?"

Smilingly, Roosevelt acknowledged that he had read an account of it in a newspaper.

Rep. Rich (R.) of Pennsylvania had demanded in the House the recall of Earle, declaring that the envoy "got into a drunken brawl" at Sofia.

"An act like that might lead us into war," Rich shouted. "He ought to be recalled and sent back to the farm in Pennsylvania."

CHARLES ST. JAIL INMATE IN 15-FT. DIVE

Suddenly bolting from line as prisoners were filing to breakfast in the Charles st. jail today, William Roche, 30, of Rowell st., Dorchester, flung himself over a second tier railing in a headlong dive to a cement basement floor 15 feet below.

He was being held in jail in lieu of $10,000 bail for hearing today in Dorchester court on robbery charges.

After emergency treatment in the jail hospital for a badly split skull and possible internal injuries Roche was removed to City Hospital where his condition was described as serious.

Jail officials said they could not explain Roche's action. However, they did reveal that two guards became suspicious of his behavior and attempted to prevent his leap.

Governor Omitted As CIO Speaker

Gov. Saltonstall today was omitted from the list of invited speakers at the State CIO convention to be held at Hotel Bradford over the week-end.

In commenting on failure to invite the chief executive, CIO officials said the action was taken because "he failed to promise that the newly formed State Guard would not be used in labor disputes."

Kelly Urges State Small Loan Bureau

Bills to establish a state small loans department and restrictions on organization of mutual casualty insurance companies highlighted hearings before legislative committees at the State House today.

The committee on state administration heard former Lieut.-Gov. Francis E. Kelly urge favorable action on his petition to establish a commission in the office of the state treasurer to make personal loans at a rate of 1 per cent a month.

"I present this worthy bill for enactment," Kelly said, "in the interests of the unfortunate borrower, who is now compelled, under our State laws, to pay the outrageously exorbitant rate of 36 per cent interest yearly on up-paid balances.

"There is no justification for the present usurious rate of 36 per cent a year charged the borrower. Society for centuries has cried out against it.

"GROSSLY INHUMAN"

"The poor, the indigent and the middle class who are compelled to borrow money for current expenses have been the groups most affected by these grossly inhuman financial loan institutions that are protected by our laws."

Approving a bill which would give him power to reject applications for formation of hastily organized mutual casualty insurance companies, State Insurance Commr. Charles F. J. Harrington told the committee of Insurance it would enable him to determine the good faith of those proposing to operate such companies.

GAS TAX CASH RESTRICTION

John W. Downs, legislative counsel for the Insurance Federation of Massachusetts, advised the committee that insurance companies have withdrawn their opposition to such legislation.

Passage of an amendment to the state constitution to restrict the use of proceeds from the gasoline tax and fees for license and motor vehicle registration to highway purposes was recommended by James M. Keefe of Lawrence.

Sen. Thomas J. Lane of Lawrence, advocated adoption of his petition seeking amendment of the constitution to prohibit a sales tax or similar taxation without a referendum.

"This matter of a sales tax," he said, "has been a troublesome one to members of the General Court for several years, and it is only fair that the people be permitted to vote on a sales tax before one is saddled on them."

Contending such legislation would hamstring the Legislature, Rep. George W. Porter of Agawam opposed the petition even though he said he personally opposed a sales tax.

9 Stowaways Are Taken Here

Nine stowaways, the largest group seized here in more than a year, were taken off the Norwegian banana freighter Harboe Jensen when it docked today at Long wharf, Atlantic ave.

Ranging from 18 to 28 years in age, they told authorities they boarded the ship just prior to sailing from Port Antonio, Jamaica, Feb. 20.

They said they were told the Harboe Jensen was en route to Jacksonville, Fla., where they understood there were plenty of jobs for laborers. All are Jamaicans and British subjects.

Officers of the ship said they remained hidden in the hold of the ship until it was three days out before surrendering.

They will be turned over to the U. S. attorney to face charges of violating a recent law which makes stowing away a federal offense.

Girl Aids Dad in Divorce Suit

As her mother sat facing her in Suffolk Probate Court today, 19-year-old Dorothy Misch, attractive brunette Simmons College student, took the stand in behalf of her father, Walter Percy Misch of Park drive, Back Bay, who is seeking a divorce.

"My mother accused him of having an affair with the nurse in the house who took care of the children," the girl declared. "I saw her use her fists on him once and another time she threw a glass of water."

Misch, asking divorce on grounds of cruelty, said that in 1933 and 1934, while the family was living in Providence, life became intolerable because of the actions of his wife—Mrs. Ruth C. Misch.

Mrs. Misch still lives in Providence—in a house which her husband said cost him $28,000 to build and which he deeded over to her when he left her, Nov. 1, 1934.

She is contesting his action with a defense that she was mentally ill when the alleged acts of cruelty took place, if they ever did take place.

"I still support my wife," Misch told Judge Frederick J. Dillon, "although I had to give up my business in Providence (a clothing business) and now operate a small order concern here, unsuccessfully."

Misch said that as a result of all the bickering he lost 26 pounds. On cross-examination he explained he had weighed 198, and went down to 172 pounds. He now tilts the scales at 178.

Although he said he was under the impression no one had witnessed his wife's actions, the daughter, Dorothy, said she had seen the alleged punching incident and her mother throwing a glass of water.

She also testified that her mother had used unpleasant language in the course of arguments, but she thought the wrangling was based on her mother's dislike of Misch's mother, rather than money.

Dorothy Misch, 19-year-old Simmons College student, leaves Suffolk probate courtroom today after testifying for her father, Walter Percy Misch of Back Bay, who is suing her mother for divorce on grounds of cruelty. "My mother accused him of having an affair with the nurse who took care of the children," she said. "I saw her use her fists on him once." Mrs. Misch, now living in Providence, is contesting the action.

Mrs. Misch, a modishly clad, fur-jacketed matron of about 45, took the stand herself after the daughter's testimony. She made a flat denial of having thrown the glass of milk or the amp and said she didn't recall striking her husband. The case is continuing.

AIRCRAFT ENGINES—Present capacity for the mighty Allison aircraft engine is about 350 a month. Further expansion of facilities is aimed at three times that volume by the end of the year.

MACHINE GUNS—The resources and skilled knowledge of four GM divisions have been pooled for the volume production of machine guns. Parts are already being manufactured even while additional production machinery is being made ready.

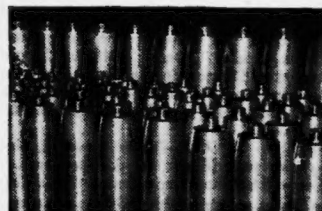

MILITARY TRUCKS—In increasing quantities military trucks are now moving out of Chevrolet plants to fill orders for both the United States and the British Governments.

DIESEL ENGINES—GM Diesel engines for submarines and other naval units have been favorably known to the Navy for years and are now being turned out by augmented production facilities in pace with the ship-building program.

BOMBER PARTS—A program calling for the manufacture of parts and sub-assemblies for 100 twin-engine bombers monthly is under way by Fisher Body Division. These are for assembly by North American Aviation, Inc.

SHELLS—Special machinery for forging and machining shells will soon be completed and ready at the new General Motors Forge Plant of Olds Motor Works Division. Production will start in May.

THE foremost duty pressing upon Americans today is to speed the defense of our country.

At no fewer than 35 different factories throughout the nation General Motors is already driving ahead on production assignments under the national program.

Where the type of product permitted, tools and buildings already available have been adapted to defense production; elsewhere, needed plant expansion is being rushed, or whole new factories are being built.

The brains and skills of our engineers and production staffs, our "know how" in volume manufacture, are unstintingly focused on America's No. 1 job.

Nor are we forgetting that in its full sweep adequate defense embraces more than weapons of war, and needs to include safeguarding the jobs and hopes of our people and the industrial strength of the nation, on which the welfare of all America depends.

So along with the main task—on drawing board, in laboratory and on the production lines, we are working to conserve, as a part of defense also, the things that make America worth fighting for.

KEEP U. S. A. OUT OF WAR

Your Part in Keeping the U. S. A.
Free of War and Dictatorship

Write today to both of your Senators (Massachusetts Senators are David I. Walsh and Henry Cabot Lodge, Jr.). Address them at the Senate Office Building, Washington, D. C. Ask them to oppose Bill No. 1776, the Bill of Wrongs which would nullify the Bill of Rights, "a bill to authorize undeclared war in the name of Peace and dictatorship in the name of Defending Democracy."

The President would have absolute power, if this Bill is passed, to do the following without consulting Congress or the people: Cancel the Neutrality Act; Send our warships and merchant vessels into war zones; Take us into war wherever he chooses; GIVE AWAY OUR ENTIRE ARMY, NAVY AND EVERY AIRPLANE TO ANY NATION. NOW IS THE TIME TO ACT—Write yourself, simply, clearly—telephone your friends to do the same. Get telegrams in as well but most important, write in person.

Peace House, working with religious and peace organizations of long standing, appeals to all young men who are opposed to war from either religious or humanitarian convictions to register on their draft questionnaire. After years of ardent work for peace our Government recognizes this right. Do not allow the opportunity to escape.

It is a matter of interest to observe that after England's many months of war, Canada does not have compulsory military service for overseas and has no Lease-Lend Bill but is SELLING armaments in large quantities to her mother country. In England over 50,000 Conscientious Objectors are helping their government in peaceful employment.

May not our own beloved country be also accused of war mongering while arming England through the front door and simultaneously slipping munitions to Germany through Russia?

The war in Africa, etc., has certainly no conceivable attribute of democracy. Gandhi, called the only heroic figure of the 20th century, expressed himself recently as follows: "It is a matter of deep regret to me that the Government (British) have not been able to appreciate the Congress (Indian) position—who felt a conscientious objection to helping a war which they regard—as one for saving imperialism, of which India is the greatest victim."

To the Clergy: The undersigned wishes to respectfully entreat you to draw the attention of your congregation to the Ten Commandments as a mode of life to be exercised in the relations between nations as well as individuals.

Judge Now Weighs Mrs. Brennan's Suit

John Brennan, Cambridge contractor, "loved his wife but she did not love him," his counsel, Thomas F. Sullivan, declared today in Middlesex Probate Court in arguments at the hearing on Mrs. Emma L. Brennan's suit for divorce.

Her suit charges the contractor with cruel and abusive treatment and in testimony she asserted that he had struck her at least 100 times in nine years of married life.

At conclusion of the arguments the case was taken under advisement by Judge Arthur E. Beane. After stressing the one-sided love in the Brennan home, Atty. Sullivan in his summation, said:

"All his wife wanted was convenience and somebody to call on for support."

Commenting on assertions that the contractor drank and had a violent temper, the attorney stressed that Mrs. Brennan had known Brennan since their childhood and knew him to be sober and industrious.

ASSAILS TESTIMONY

Atty. Sullivan harshly assailed William Nevins, Cambridge dog officer, who testified that Brennan once beat him and kicked him in the eye.

"This man Nevins," said the lawyer, "was a dog thief. Even before he was dog catcher the police of Cambridge used to go to his home whenever dogs were reported missing."

Atty. Walter McLaughlin, counsel for Mrs. Brennan, arose with an objection, declaring to Judge Arthur E. Beane:

"Your Honor, although I don't represent Mr. Nevins I think my brother (attorney) should be DEFENDS WIFE more careful in his allegations. Mr. Nevins is not on trial."

McLaughlin declared then in his argument that Brennan "can lie just as fast as he can think, and he can think almost as fast as he can use his fists and he can use his fists almost as fast as he can use his feet."

The attorney said that Mrs. Brennan "deserves a better break" and that the Brennan home "which should be a normal home, a haven of peace, a refuge, became a hell on earth because her husband was a vicious brute."

"Nothing is more to be treasured," continued McLaughlin, "than a decent and loving husband."

"Brennan kicked out the finest and sweetest thing that ever came into his exotic career. She is asking freedom from a situation that she or no woman could long endure."

Firemen Train Dogs Here for Use in War

This business of having a dog in every fire station is not just a case of providing pets for firemen, but a serious measure planned as part of the National Defense program, it was disclosed today.

These 50 dogs, cream of the crop of Dalmatians in the United States, are being schooled to carry messages to given points, to seek out persons in wrecked buildings—against a possible day of bombing—for scout work, and other similar duties.

The whole thing, according to attaches of the mayor's office, grew out of a plan undertaken by Mayor Moran, of Wolcott rd., Brookline, a dog fancier, who selected 15 Dalmatian-Finchers out of a group three times that number to be given emergency training for future City of Boston use.

Moran's plan interested Mayor Tobin, who is chairman of the fire prevention division of the national defense committee, and he in turn interested Fire Comm. William Arthur Reilly.

The result was that Commr. Reilly got in touch with the Dalmatian Club of America, of which Mrs. Mary Barrett of Dover is president. Mrs. Barrett breeds Dalmatians and racehorses at her estate.

She canvassed the Dalmatian Club membership and from 50 of its men and women breeders received voluntary offers of dogs to train up the Boston fire department contingent.

After preliminary training at the hands of their owners, the dogs will be given an intensive schooling in this city by Bert Turquist of the New England Dog Training Club, and by William Coker, United Fruit Co. officials and amateur trainer and breeder.

Girl in Coma 63 Days After Auto Crash

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 26 (AP)—The almost imperceptible fluttering of an eyelid was all that marked Miss Ruth Stevenson's battle for life today as the 22-year-old victim of an automobile accident entered the third month of her strange coma.

Temple University physicians believe the 63-day coma resulting from an injury constitutes a record.

A machine in which the girl was riding crashed into a pole, killing the driver and injuring her so critically that physicians feared she would die within a few hours.

Miss Stevenson's insensibility is so deep, they said, that no anesthetic was necessary for the last operation. The skull was opened on the left side and a quantity of fluid was drained off. No blood clot was found.

Reading Dice Game Robber Sent to Prison

Anthony Cacciola, 42, of Essex st., Malden, was sentenced to two and one-half to three years in State's Prison in Middlesex Superior Court today for conspiracy to rob, carrying a revolver and assault with a dangerous weapon. The charges grew out of Reading dice game holdup last May.

Judge Harold P. Williams imposed the sentence after Cacciola pleaded guilty. Originally scheduled for trial Jan. 14 he had defaulted $500 bail as police sought him for questioning in connection with the Revere cafe shooting of Frank Venezia.

Fire Sweeps Warehouse In Quincy

Ladderman Fred Rouillard suffered a gashed hand today and three other firemen were trapped by flames atop a ladder during a stubborn two-alarm fire in a warehouse at Upland rd. and Granite st., Quincy.

Flames shooting from windows of the warehouse, owned by Meyer Winer, operator of two Quincy hardware stores, trapped Capt. William Whoolsey and Firemen Robert Mullaney and Frank Dorley at the third floor.

Brother firemen on the ground straddled the ladder with water streams until the trio were able to make an escape descent.

With quantities of hardware and accessories stored in the three-story stucco structure, flames had gained considerable headway when the firemen arrived and Fire Chief William J. Sands ordered a second alarm.

The firemen, through constant drenching of an adjoining gasoline filling station, operated by Oscar Skoglund, succeeded in preventing spread of the flames to the station.

Damage to the warehouse and contents was set at $10,000.

TRAIN CRASHES TRUCK

STOUGHTON, Feb. 26 (AP)—Joseph Umba, 28, leaped to safety today when a gasoline-driven train struck his stalled oil truck at the Pleasant st. crossing. Seven passengers on the one-car train were shaken up.

Lenten Rites Open in Hub Churches

Catholics and Protestants today marked the opening of the solemn season of Lent by attending Ash Wednesday services in their churches.

Ashes were blessed at morning masses in Catholic churches and were distributed throughout the day. Ash Wednesday is a strict fast day for Catholics, though it is not a holy day of obligation.

Episcopal Lenten services were held at the Cathedral of St. Paul in downtown Boston, with communion at 8:20 and 11:30 a. m. Dean Edwin J. Van Eelen recited the litany and penitential office at 10 a. m. and Bishop Henry Knox Sherrill was guest preacher at noon.

Vespers were scheduled for 5:10 and 7:30 p. m.

At Trinity Church, Back Bay, holy communion was held at 8 a. m. and litany and penitential service at 11 o'clock. The rector, the Rev. Oliver J. Hart, was preacher. Evening prayers were scheduled for 5:15 p. m.

Dr. Palfrey Perkins was preacher at the noonday services at King's Chapel. Holy Communion was served at Emmanuel Church, Back Bay, at 8 and 10:15 a. m., and the litany and penitential services were held at 11 a. m. Dr. Phillips E. Osgood, rector, was preacher.

Upturn in Jobs To Save City $1,300,000

The national defense program and improved business conditions seem well on the way to saving the city of Boston at least $1,300,000 in 1941, executive director of the city welfare department, William G. O'Hare, testified today.

O'Hare appeared before the Boston City Council committee on appropriations, that is weighing Mayor Tobin's budget for 1941.

"On last July 29 we had 15,455 cases of dependent aid," O'Hare said, "those are men, heads of families, obliged to accept aid only because they can't find work. Since then, about 4000 of those men have found jobs in national defense projects or in business."

"If those men stay at work this year, it will cut the welfare budget to $1,300,000."

O'Hare also said he expected the welfare department's outlay for fuel in 1941 to be cut a neat $100,000—to $405,000.

Though the number of employees in the department was cut from 711 to 659 from January, 1940, to January, 1941, the director said he would like to increase the number of welfare visitors.

"Visitors who handle dependent aid and children's aid handle an average of 160 cases," he explained. "They should have about 100. Visitors handling old age assistance have about 230 cases each. They should have about 200."

He said that since the Federal Food Stamp plan went into effect there has been a single complaint, nor a single case of undernourishment reported.

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT AND FALLA
Dog's Appeasement Plan Wins His Heart

FALLA WINS F. D.'S HEART

None Dare Say 'Darn That Dog'

By JACK STINNETT

Associated Press—Feature Service

WASHINGTON, Feb. 26—This is the tale of Falla, the most famous dog in America today.

Falla is a jet black scottie. Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt calls him the "wiggliest bundle of fur you ever tried to lay hands on." President Roosevelt calls him "Falla."

His formal name is "Falla of Murray Hill." It was appropriated from one of the President's old Scottish ancestors.

Falla of Murray Hill, so the story goes, was an outlaw in the days when being successful as a Scottish outlaw was as much of an achievement as being elected President of the United States for a third term.

Falla came to live at the White House something less than a year ago. He was a gift from one of President Roosevelt's Dutchess County relatives.

Aside from the squirrels that scamper around the White House lawn and the pigeons that hum a luxurious living along the White House paths, Falla has in a bid for the only permanent animal resident in the Roosevelt administration.

Jack and Jill, two beautiful brown cocker spaniels that belong to Mrs. John Boettiger, daughter of the House of Roosevelt, have been popular guests, but their tenure never was long.

There was another scottie, but he was a snappish sort and had to be packed off to the country before he had got to first base in presidential affections.

With Falla it's different. There hasn't been a day that he hasn't wagged his way a little deeper into the President's heart.

One of the ceremonies of the President's day is giving Falla his evening meal. No one else dares cut in.

Mrs. Roosevelt commented recently that Falla is rapidly becoming a one-man dog. There's no doubt about it.

Another thing about Falla is his rapidly increasing travel mileage. He has been to Hyde Park so many times he knows the trees there as well as he knows those on the White House lawn. And when the President made his last Caribbean cruise, Falla sailed with the Skipper, as first mate.

He got seasick, too, and like all the others he made a dash for the rail. Fortunately, he was caught before he slipped over for a dog-paddle in the briny.

that Falla is the nation's First Pet, it could be found in the amount of fan mail he gets. I'll bet you there isn't a glamour boy in Hollywood who wouldn't be proud to do as well.

In addition, Falla has such a surplus of luxuries that he couldn't use them all if he outlived the oldest living scottie. There isn't a manufacturer of flea powder, dog biscuits, curry combs or collars that wouldn't be happy to have Falla head his testimony list, and most of these pass out generous samples, just in hope.

RAF SQUADRONS AGAIN BLAST INVASION PORTS

LONDON, Feb. 26 (AP)—A strong force of British bombers, guarded by waves of fighting planes, swept across the southeast English coast in the direction of France this afternoon, apparently following up a heavy night attack on the Ruhr industrial area and airdromes in Nazi-occupied France.

Nazis Take Over Libya Warfare

ROME, Feb. 26 (AP)—The Italian high command indicated today the German army and air corps were taking over the brunt of the battle against the British in Libya and announced that German and British armored detachments have had their first clash there.

Hitler's mechanized formations started into action Monday morning the day after Mussolini in a speech had disclosed their presence in North Africa, and met the British units southwest of Agadabia, an Italian commune said.

Agadabia is near the base of the wide Sirte gulf which spreads between Benghazi and Tripoli.

NAIROBI, Kenya Colony, Feb. 26 (AP)—British empire forces founding Fascist defenders of Italian Somaliland by land, sea and air, have captured Mogadiscio, the colony's capital, on the southeast and plunged 60 miles up the Juba river in the interior, an official announcement said today.

South and East African forces co-operating with Gold Coast regiments heading up the river, where strong Italian defenses have collapsed, were declared to have trapped the main body of Fascists by cutting off their escape.

With the capture of Mogadiscio, the Empire forces have penetrated 400 miles into the East African colony since launching their offensive into the East African colony a month ago.

The skies were clear as the formations moved high over the sea, the fighters tracing their course with thin white trails of exhaust vapor. They headed in the direction of Calais and Cap Gris Nez.

Then observers on the coast saw another formation streaking toward Dunkirk, while a third group moved in the direction of Boulogne. Later the air armada recrossed the Dover strait, having completed its missions. There was no immediate announcement of results pending reports from pilots and observers.

WARNING IN LONDON

Air raid sirens shrieked in London this afternoon after repeated reports that German planes were crossing the Strait of Dover.

The alarm was brief, however, the all clear sounding after a few minutes without any reports of bombing or anti-aircraft fire in the capital.

The air ministry news service said a Blenheim pilot of the fighter command spent an hour over one airdrome last night and "hit and damaged several enemy bombers."

BOMBS PLANE

The pilot reported that he saw a Nazi plane landing and that since he was too near to machine-gun it, he dropped a bomb.

A few minutes later, the pilot recounted, he dived on another machine coming in and saw bullets entering the craft.

He said he stayed over the airdrome firing bursts into a third German plane "which broke away very low and its lights went out," then fired into still a fourth Nazi craft and dropped a bomb in the path of a flare.

Just before leaving, the pilot asserted, he dropped two more bombs near a "troublesome" searchlight and put it out.

Armament works, rail junctions and factories in the regions of Essen and Dusseldorf were believed targets of other raids.

Canadian War Plane Crashes, 4 Die

OAK LAKE, Manitoba, Feb. 26 (AP)—The wreckage of a Royal Canadian Air Force plane and the bodies of its four occupants were found by searchers today on the ice of Oak lake, near its town, 200 miles west of Winnipeg. The plane crashed last night.

Crew members were Sergt. J. G. Butcher of Carman, Man., pilot; Sergt. W. H. Trett of Lucknow, Ont., and Sergt. H. A. Howarth of London, Ont. Observers, and leading Aircraftman L. R. Lancaster of Rodney, Ont., radio operator.

Britain, Spain in Pact On Tangier Zone

LONDON, Feb. 26 (AP)—Britain today announced a provisional agreement under which Spain has promised to refrain from fortifying the Tangier international zone.

Spanish troops occupied the international area flanking the Strait of Gibraltar last June 14 "to protect its neutrality." On Nov. 4 the Spanish military officially took "full charge" of the zone, ousting British employees.

EDEN HAILED IN TURKEY, BEGINS ROUND OF PARLEYS

ANKARA, Turkey, Feb. 26 (AP)—Within two hours after his arrival in the Turkish capital, Britain's foreign secretary, Anthony Eden, conferred separately today with J. V. A. MacMurray, United States ambassador to Turkey, and with the Greek minister to Ankara.

Both called on Eden at the British embassy, where he went after an uproarious welcome from a cheering crowd when he arrived aboard President Ismet Inonu's special train.

Gen. Sir John G. Dill, chief of the British Imperial general staff, who arrived here with Eden, called upon Turkish military leaders almost immediately.

PLANS 3-DAY STAY

Eden and his group are expected to remain in Ankara about three days.

Eden planned to call on President Inonu briefly this afternoon, then place a wreath on the tomb of Kamal Attaturk, Inonu's predecessor and builder of modern Turkey. Later, the British foreign secretary will pay his respects to Saracoglu and Premier Seydam, and tonight he will be honor guest at a state banquet.

Nazis Curb Holland Riots

AMSTERDAM (via Berlin), Feb. 26 (AP)—German authorities today imposed a military administration on the province of North Holland because of strikes and riots in Amsterdam.

The strikers were ordered back to work by Thursday and warned imprisonment and even capital punishment might follow violations.

The proclamation was issued at The Hague by the German military commander, Gen. Friedrich Christiansen.

"I have taken over executive power for the province of North Holland," he said, "in view of the present political situation."

The general ordered work in all public and private enterprises "be resumed to the fullest extent by Thursday morning."

12,000 NAZIS IN INVASION OF BULGARIA

By DESIDER GELEJI
International News Service Staff Correspondent

BELGRADE, Feb. 26 (INS)—Twelve thousand German troops, chiefly motorized units, invaded Bulgaria from the Dobruja section of Rumania yesterday afternoon, it was reported from Sofia today.

The Germans crossed into Bulgaria across the Danube river bridge near Chernavoda, according to these advices.

A dispatch received from Budapest said the troops entered Bulgaria at two places—Vidin near the Yugoslav frontier and at a point in southern Dobruja. The crossing began at midnight.

Efforts to obtain contact with Sofia by telephone from Berlin were fruitless. Authorities said that telephone service to Sofia was "disturbed." At the same time, the German propaganda ministry said "nothing is known" of any German invasion of Bulgaria.—Editor's note.

Three German troop trains were reported to have left Vidin in the direction of Sofia.

It was believed that altogether 120,000 German troops will march into Bulgaria over various border points from Rumania.

Nazis Accuse Britons Of Sabotage in Bulgaria

BERLIN, Feb. 26 (AP)—Berlin took an increasing interest today in developments in Bulgaria where, Germans here said, "British agents were actively organizing disturbances and acts of sabotage."

Advices reaching Berlin said several persons, accused of being English agents, had been arrested on charges of attempting to damage the water system of Sofia, the capital.

However, widespread reports of German intervention in Bulgaria were met with denials.

A spokesman declared flatly "There are no German troops in Bulgaria."

Nazi Bulgarian Plans Advanced, London Says

LONDON, Feb. 26 (AP)—The British government said today that "all information suggests that the German preparations for an occupation of Bulgaria are now far advanced."

Foreign Undersecretary R. A. Butler, who made the statement in Commons, declared the government was "completely satisfied" with the way in which Turkey was carrying out the Turkish-British alliance.

He said the British government was kept "fully informed" on negotiations leading up to the Turkish-Bulgarian non-aggression declaration of Feb. 17.

FINED IN YEAST VIOLATION

Accused of failing to report sales of yeast, Thomas J. Chiara of Lawrence, was fined $100 and placed on probation for a year in United States District Court. Since yeast is used in the manufacture of distilled spirits, dealers, under federal law, are required to report sales.

72 F. D.'S 'MUST WIN WAR' EDICT SHOCKS WHEELER

WASHINGTON, Feb. 26 (AP)—Sen. Wheeler (D.) of Montana asserted in the Senate today that President Roosevelt had made "a shocking statement" when he told his press conference yesterday that proposals for peace must await a British victory and that the first thing was to win the war.

Interrupting an attack by Sen. Nye (R.) of North Dakota on the Administration's British aid bill, Wheeler said the President's statement indicated a position which the United States certainly should not take "unless we are ready to get into the war."

"I submit that we are not in the war unless the President of the United States has already committed us to war," Wheeler shouted. "If we are in the war, I repeat that we are in violation of the Constitution of the United States."

"GO TO WAR" MEASURE

Nye said he regarded the President's expression of views as "increasing evidence" that the so-called leave-land bill was a "go to war" measure.

"Who are we in the United States," Wheeler broke in, "to tell the British what they should do? Who is the President of the United States that he should tell the British that the war should go on? How can Britain win unless we come into the war?"

Senator Clarke (D.) of Missouri another opponent of the bill, said it was his view that the President "practically said, 'Yes, we are in the war.'"

Opponents of the bill agreed at an informal meeting to wind up general debate on the measure this week. This would open the way to start voting on amendments Monday.

DEBATE ENDS SATURDAY

Senator Wheeler said it was the consensus of 15 Senators who attended the meeting that sentiment against the bill was increasing both in the Senate and the country, but that no effort would be made to prolong general debate beyond Saturday.

Senators can continue to speak during consideration of amendments, it was pointed out.

Senator Barkley of Kentucky, the Democratic leader, told reporters, meanwhile, that he would not renew his efforts to obtain longer Senate sessions "for a day or two." Barkley's previous attempts to get the Senate to agree to meet an hour earlier daily in order to speed consideration of the bill brought veiled threats of a filibuster.

Notice of CIO Strike Sent To President

DETROIT, Feb. 26 (AP)—R. J. Thomas, president of the United Automobile Workers-CIO, said today the union had filed a notice with the state labor mediation board of intent to strike at the Rouge, Highland Park and Lincoln plants of the Ford Motor Co.

The board requires a 30-day notice of intent to strike in an industry engaged in defense production. The law requires a five-day notice except in industries directly involving the public welfare.

Thomas and Michael F. Widman, Jr., director of the UAW-CIO drive to unionize the Ford Co., said the strike action was approved by an "overwhelming majority" of the employees in the three principal Ford plants.

Copies of the notice, Thomas said, were sent to President Roosevelt and to Governor Murray D. Van Wagoner of Michigan.

U.S. Invasion Peril Less, Says Marshall

WASHINGTON, Feb. 26 (AP)—Congress heard today that Gen. George C. Marshall considers an invasion less imminent than a year ago when, he said, this country would have been in "a somewhat helpless plight" had control of the Atlantic "passed to an enemy."

At the same time, the legislators learned from the Navy's top-ranking admiral, Harold R. Stark, that while transfer of more destroyers to Britain on the scale suggested by Wm. L. Wikkie would not be advisable "at the moment," the government's hands should not be tied in the matter.

Marshall, chief of staff of the Army, gave the committee a graphic picture of the defense problem thrust upon the War Department by the collapse of France and pointed out that the high command had been surprised by the public support given their unprejudiced recommendations.

Stark, chief of naval operations, testified in response to questions that he did not feel transfer of additional destroyers to Britain would be advisable at this time, but recommended the committee "it is impossible to foresee what we may want to do tomorrow or next day, under present world conditions."

"Certain emergency conditions might arise under which we might want to make certain transfers of material," he explained.

Among other things, the committee learned:

1.—The Army is considering a further but unspecified expansion of its air corps.

2.—About 3 per cent, or 35,500, of the Army's enlisted personnel are sick, chiefly as a result of the influenza epidemic.

3.—That about 100,000,000 could have been saved on the cantonment program if funds had been available for advance planning.

4.—That the Army has been "canvassing every city in the country" in an effort to find city managers willing to take charge of supervising the operation of the utilities in its major camps.

5.—The air corps plans to experiment with downhill runways at Wright Field, O., for heavy bombardment plane takeoffs.

Navy to Spend $20,000,000 in N. E.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 26 (AP)—The Navy has recommended expenditures of nearly $20,000,000 in New England for expansion of aviation, shipbuilding and manufacturing facilities and for bases for submarine chasers, torpedo boats and mine layers.

The largest single item was $8.

500,000 for expansion of the General Electric Co.'s plant at Pittsfield, Mass., where the Navy wants directors and hydraulic equipment manufactured.

Funds sought by the Navy for regular establishments and recommended by the House appropriations committee included: $2,090,000 for the Boston Navy Yard to expand facilities in South Boston; $255,000 for housing crews of Navy vessels being repaired; and $65,000 for the Chelsea, Mass., Naval Hospital for an additional temporary ward building.

The Navy also prior to expenditure of $2,000,000 for "section bases" from which sub chasers, minelayers and the new speedy torpedo boats would operate along the coast. A good part of this sum, it was believed, would be allocated to New England ports.

Included in the Navy share were funds for 40 motor minesweepers, already under contract, and four others to be acquired before June 30; $10,000,000 for construction of "mosquito fleet" base to cost ultimately about $12,000,000; and $10,000,000 to start the installation of equipment to protect merchant vessels from magnetic mines. About 1650 vessels are to be so equipped.

possible the delivery by the end of 1913 of 55 more destroyers than had been planned originally.

CIVILIAN COPS FOR NAVY

The committee approved all but one item recommended by the budget bureau—funds for a civilian police force for the Navy—and sent the measure immediately back to the House floor for debate.

The bulk of the Army fund of $20,150,000 was earmarked for construction, both new and under way. A total of $33,800,000 was included to complete 186 cantonments and other housing projects for which the original estimates were too low. Bazzards and frozen ground handicapped construction at both Edwards and Devens, Somervell said. Increased labor and material costs, he added, were for the most part the result of abnormal conditions under which the work had to be done.

A report from the defense commission, he asserted, showed there was "little to indicate" that the element of waste and inefficiency was responsible in any proportionate measure to the overrun of original estimates.

A careful study of the collapse of France and German victories and war methods was cited by Chief of Staff Gen. George C. Marshall as another reason for delaying final plans for cantonments.

FROST CITED

He said the requirements of the various cantonments were affected by such studies which had resulted in changes in the Army's organization.

Some of the items causing increased expenses at Edwards, as reported by Somervell, were: a 25 per cent increase for framing lumber, 45 per cent for sheeting, 30 per cent for millwork; 15 per cent for plumbing, 6 per cent for electrical material.

Road construction, of the bituminous type, amounted to about $80,000 a mile. Somervell added, although he asserted such roads probably were of worth only about $27,000. Frost and ground factors contributed to this increased cost, he explained.

About $1,416,000 of the increased cost was due to labor rates. Somervell said: $1,087,470 to overtime; $216,153 for repairs to equipment, poles and fire protection, and $48,000 to a 40 per cent loss of labor efficiency due to high-speed construction under winter conditions, night work and "a high per cent of poorly qualified workmen because of an inadequate supply of trained mechanics."

Factors boosting cost estimates at Devens were listed as $15,493 for lumber, due both to need for more lumber and increased prices; $1,561,121 increase for other materials; $355,330 for labor overtime; $307,788 due to a 40 per cent loss of labor efficiency caused by night work, winter conditions and a "high percentage of poorly qualified workmen because of an inadequate supply of trained mechanics."

Dear Fred:

I am pleased to say we are keeping well and have missed any harm from the "blitz" up to the present. We are getting used to "alerts," although it is not exactly pleasant when the planes come over.

I do know that the majority of people are as nervous as some little time ago. It is said that the sky is a big place but I can tell you that when "Jerry" is over dropping bombs you have the feeling that the sky is not so large after all and that his "present" is intended for you individually.

There have been some dropped close in here but not too near to be dangerous. Your dear old city of Bham has had and withstood quite a lot of bombing and a great deal of damage has been done in various parts of the city, but it still stands and hopes to keep to its motto, "Forward."

This air business can be destructive but I do not think that this alone can bring the war to a conclusion. At the present rate of destruction it would take a large number of years to destroy a country and it would certainly take a long time to break down British morale by air attack alone.

The "good old ship" is still afloat and the members of the crew contemporary with yourself that are still on board are all right. Foster, Smith and McLean. What a wonderful man Mac is! He still moves about briskly and he must now be well over 70, and he can still tell the tale as freely as ever. He never was lost for a word and he had always a good excuse at a moment's notice.

There is only one thing about this air raid business and that is it is compelling people to have more home life because it is of no use going out after tea as the shops close early, the amusement places do not keep open late, in fact evening performances, especially in Bham, are not taking place, some picture palaces close at 6 p. m., the idea being to prevent crowding in city centers.

It will be something to look forward to in the future, a late night at the theater. We shall appreciate quite a lot of the things we now have to do without.

We have taken so much for granted that we do not realize their existence until they are suddenly taken from us. Yours as ever, JACK.

Hearst Pacific Views Lauded in Congress

WASHINGTON, Feb. 26 (Special to Boston Evening American)—William Randolph Hearst's recent striking analysis of the situation on the Pacific coast, as published in his column, "In The News," in the Los Angeles Examiner and other Hearst papers Friday, has been widely commented on in Congress.

The article was read with appreciation, not only by Sen. Hiram W. Johnson and members of the California delegation in the House, but by many Congressmen from other states.

TO GO INTO RECORD

Rep. John M. Costello, of California, called the attention of the House to the article in a brief speech and obtained permission to have it republished in full in the Congressional Record.

Members of the California delegation believe that Mr. Hearst's article, as thus called to the attention of the House members, will be helpful to them in the effort they are making to obtain congressional authorization for the establishment of new military and naval academies on the West Coast.

They feel that Mr. Hearst has presented the case for the West Coast in a manner calculated to be convincing to House members from other sections of the country.

TIMELINESS STRESSED

"The article," said Mr. Costello, in his address, "sets forth very clearly the international situation in the Pacific, and is therefore worthy of the attention of every member of the House."

"The timeliness of this article is made more apparent by reason of the recent demand of Japan that she be ceded Oceania in order that she might have additional territorial and colonial expansion. Whether this expansion was to include the Philippines or not is not clear, but the threat to our interests in the Pacific is quite evident."

The request to include Mr. Hearst's article in the Record was then made and agreed to without objection.

World War Rules Will Be Revived To Guard Capitol

WASHINGTON, Feb. 26 (AP)—Authorities disclosed today World War restrictions would be revived in the near future to safeguard the Capitol.

Kenneth Romney, House sergeant-at-arms, said that as soon as necessary arrangements could be made, all visitors would be forbidden to carry cameras, traveling bags or packages in the building. Such articles will have to be checked with Capitol police at the entrance.

Romney said the added safeguards were part of a general tightening up to protect all government buildings.

14th Week for 'Here's Ireland'

EVENING AMERICAN, WEDNESDAY, FEB. 25, 1941

Boston has taken to its heart the made-in-Ire film, "Here's Ireland," which is now in its eighth thriving week at the Fine Arts Theater.

Quantities of Bostonians have journeyed vicariously to the Emerald Isle via the Fine Arts screen in the past several months. Many Irish-born, harassed by what is happening over there, have been able to forget the tragic present for the peaceful past as they gaze again on Killarney's blue lakes and all the other beautiful spots that identify Ireland as one of the world's most enchanting places.

As the picture unfolds, Producer Pat Stanton, who is also the commentator for "Here's Ireland," contributes terse and vivid descriptions of the places and people shown, these including the cities of Cork, Limerick and Dublin, Ireland's churches, institutions, native industries and traditional dancers as well as the great and lowly among its citizenry.

Additional features on the program are the Walt Disney cartoon, "Donald's Vacation," and other short subjects.

DANIELLE DARRIEUX uses her siren tricks on "Virgin Bride," feature picture on the double bill which is being held over on the Trans-Lux screen.

'Americans All' at Memorial

"Americans All" added feature on today's new screen program at Keith-Memorial Theater, is the story of the building of America by the millions of people who have come from many lands to find freedom, opportunity and a better way of life.

It reveals that almost 40 million people have flocked to these star-spangled shores during the past century, shows how the foreign-born and the children of the foreign-born have contributed greatly toward building this nation and making it the world's greatest democracy.

High in the councils of the nation today are many men who came to the United States as immigrants—men like Welsh-born U. S. Senator James J. Davis, German-born Robert F. Wagner, Austrian-born Justice Felix Frankfurter, Russian-born Sidney Hillman and Danish-born William S. Knudsen.

'Cabin in Sky' Seats Go on Sale

To meet the early and rising demand for seats for the two-week engagement of "Cabin in the Sky" at the Colonial Theater beginning March 10, the box-office of the theater will be open for a full week prior to the start of the local run, it was announced today. Tickets will go on sale starting Monday.

On Broadway, meanwhile, the gay musical comedy, starring Ethel Waters, enters the final week of its run, which has lasted out the fall and winter seasons on the theatrical main-stem.

The Colonial Theater engagement inaugurates a comprehensible tour for "Cabin in the Sky," which will proceed by easy stages from here through Toronto, Detroit, Pittsburgh, Columbus, Indianapolis and St. Louis to Chicago, where it is expected to open early in May.

The entire Broadway company will travel with the Albert Lewis-Vinton Freedley production. Featured in support of Miss Waters are Todd Duncan, Rex Ingram, Dooley Wilson, Katherine Dunham, and J. Rosamond Johnson, together with the Katherine Dunham Dancers and the J. Rosamond Johnson Singers.

The elaborate settings are the work of Boris Aronson, and the staging was done by George Balanchine. Lynn Root wrote the book and John Latouche and Vernon Duke the words and music.

"HOLLYWOOD TODAY," by Louella O. Parsons, noted Filmland authority, appears regularly in the Boston Evening American.

The Smoothies Keith-Boston Hit

Headed by the popular radio trio, The Smoothies, and the personable comedians, Henry Youngman, the RKO Boston Theater boasts another star-studded, four-day stage show, starting tomorrow. "Secret Evidence," with Marjorie Reynolds and Charles Quigley, and "Petticoat Politics," with Roscoe Karns and Ruth Donnelly, are the two first-run screen offerings.

A charming girl and two young men make up The Smoothies, a well known radio and recording harmony trio, remembered them for their work on the Horace Heidt Pot-of-Gold program and many others.

Henry Youngman, who began his professional career as a musician but found that his rapid fire repartee was better accepted by audiences than his violin solo, guest starred on the Kate Smith program. He is today acknowledged as a promising young comedian. Bobby Pincus, billed as "A Chap Who Can Take It," does a comedy bit, assisted by lovely Ruth Foster. The Six Grays offer song and dance routines in "A Revelation of Talent, Youth and Beauty." The South American teeterboard artists, Los Rancheros, complete the bill.

"Secret Evidence," a drama, tells the story of a girl, who, torn between her love for a strong man and her duty to a weakling, spurns the easier way and offers herself on the altar of public opinion to save others.

"Petticoat Politics" is the latest comedy in the Higgins Family series. Many hilarious situations arise between Polly Moran and Spencer Charteris, while Alan Ladd and Lola Ranson supply the romance.

Anti-Nazi Film On Bowdoin Screen

For the next three days, "Pastor Hall," fine anti-Nazi film, may be seen on the Bowdoin Square screen. Heading the cast are Mildred Lawson, Sir Seymour Hicks and Nova Fibelam. On the same bill is "Dreaming Out Loud."

Trans-Lux Bill Is Held Over By Demand

Holding over at the Trans-Lux are the gay and spicy comedies "Virgin Bride" and "School for Husbands." All attendance records have been smashed at the theater during the run of these two sophisticated and smart film attractions, one from the French studios, with charming Danielle Darrieux as its petite star, and the other an importation from England with Rex Harrison, who did such a dashing job in "Night Train," and pretty June Clyde in the top roles.

Danielle is the vivacious and temperamental little lady who just to spite her papa marries an elderly and stodgy gentleman of wealth only to discover that her heart belongs to his tall and handsome son. So poor old daddy coos his heels outside milady's boudoir, while his bride in name only has a time for herself with one gigolo after another at the Paris hot spots. Of course it's a cinch that the step-mama will walk out on her disappointed bridegroom and elope with sonny. But meantime there's a lot of fun, with the provocative Darrieux just about the cutest mamselle to ever break a heart. There are excellent English subtitles to explain the French dialogue.

There are more marital mix-ups in "School For Husbands," but suave Mr. Harrison is just the fellow to play Mr. Fixit. There's quite a lesson, between laughs, on how to keep the little woman happy. They're both a lot of fun, these somewhat daring adventures in love and matrimony, and swiftly paced for strictly adult enjoyment.

'Second Chorus' On Olympia Screen

The Washington St. Olympia screen feature through Friday is "Second Chorus," starring Fred Astaire, Paulette Goddard and Artie Shaw and his band. On the same bill is "Saint in Palm Springs," featuring George Sanders and Wendy Barrie.

LEOPOLD STOKOWSKI goes over a score from Walt Disney's "Fantasia," which continues its successful run at the Majestic Theater.

'Fantasia' Animator Has Enough To Last Forever and a Day!

The animator who created the hats for the centaurettes is wear in the "Pastoral" sequence of Walt Disney's "Fantasia," continuing its successful run at the Majestic, hopes that he never receives such an assignment again.

The action in one section of this Disney picturization of the melodi-Beethoven music, calls for the centaurettes to stage a fashion show. From lily pads, bark, flowers, leaves and even live doves, little cupid fashion hats for them to wear.

The animator's groundwork consisted of studying all of the current fashion magazines he could lay his hands on. Then, full of courage, he designed a hat and drew it on a centaurette.

The secretary of his particular unit happened to come into the room one day, took one look at the drawing of the hat, and gave a lady-like shriek.

"Why, Ollie!" she turned on the animator with reproach. "No girl would THINK of wearing a hat like that at an angle like that!"

The animator, still not convinced, checked his idea and her idea with other girls within reach, and found that the secretary was right.

From then on, gulvering with caution, the animator showed his hat sketches to at least 10 girls and got a majority approval before even considering its inclusion in the scene. Then, for a double check, he took the sketches home with him and out on dates, where he did some more research.

"I never realized girls were so fussy about hats before," he sighed. "You wouldn't think most of them were—to look at those funny little knick-knacks they have the nerve to wear sometimes!"

16 'Philadelphia Story' Held Over

EVENING AMERICAN, WEDNESDAY, FEB. 26, 1941

There appears not to be the vaguest doubt that the film version of "The Philadelphia Story" will repeat its fantastically successful stage career. At Loew's State and Orpheum theaters, where it is playing to enthusiastic capacity audiences at every performance, it is being held over a second week.

New England's Katharine Hepburn, who scored triumphantly in the original stage production, is winning more plaudits in the current screen version, in which she is starred with Cary Grant and James Stewart.

Miss Hepburn is a constant delight and a treat for her fans in a comedy role that was custom tailored to her glamorous dimensions by Playwright Philip Barry.

She is seen as a Philadelphia society girl who wants a perfect husband. Her first spouse, Grant, unfortunately had human frailties, so she divorced him. Her second husband-to-be, John Howard, worked his way up from the con mines. But Grant, realizing that the swing away from him is too great, turns up before the wedding to see what he can do about it.

Holding over also is the second feature, Hal Roach's "Road Show."

KATHARINE HEPBURN, John Howard and Cary Grant as they appear in "The Philadelphia Story," laugh-filled comedy of what happened to a snooty society darling when she woke up after a very, very hilarious party and couldn't remember a thing! The filmization of Philip Barry's Broadway hit play continues for a second week in Boston on Loew's State and Orpheum screens.

Jimmy Gives Costume Trouble

James Stewart's bathrobe trouble caused more excitement in the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer wardrobe department than the creation of gowns for all the glamorous feminine stars on the lot, during the filming of "The Philadelphia Story."

Stewart had to have the robe for a swimming scene with Miss Hepburn. Nothing was thought about it until the day before the sequence was to be filmed, when Director George Cukor requested several bathrobes to be tried on Stewart. None owned by the studio would do. They all hit the six-foot, four-inch Stewart around the knees.

The wardrobe department hastily canvassed all of the stores in Hollywood and the surrounding vicinity, but there wasn't a bathrobe in Southern California to cover the actor's lanky figure. Plenty could be found to fit six-footers, but not Stewart.

It was finally necessary to make one, and three studio tailors labored all night on the job. The moment the scene was completed, the wardrobe department had a man on hand to take the robe back and carefully put it away, just in case Stewart ever has to wear a bathrobe on the screen again.

On The Side

By E. V. DURLING

ASH WEDNESDAY, observed today in many churches and lands as the beginning of the period of penance and prayer preparatory to the great Christian feast of Easter, was never more important or significant.

For the second time in the present century the Lenten season finds the principal nations of Europe engaged in ruinous conflict; war-mongers enjoying a veritable devil's holiday, and millions of supposedly civilized men leaping at each other's throats like the wildest of wild animals.

Once more, as in 1917, the United States prepares to plunge its resources and probably its youth into the international inferno in spite of the knowledge that the act can only mean more broken hearts, hundreds of thousands of graves with little white crosses upon them, and many, many more years of depression, poverty and retrogression.

Meanwhile, Russia, the arch-foe of Christianity and the Twentieth Century exponent of godlessness, sits idly by gobbling up fallen nations and getting ready for the time when she can force her atheism on the entire world.

The whole hideous and disgusting spectacle is an affront to Christ who spent thirty-three years on earth showing men how to live.

The gentle Jesus, who prayed on the cross for those who had scourged and condemned Him, did not teach His followers to fashion bombs and drop them on women and children, to manufacture lethal gasses, or to design such instruments of mass murder as the battleship, airplane and submarine.

The Son of God, who raised the dead, restored sight to the blind and proved beyond any doubt that nothing was impossible for Him to do, preached brotherly love, charity and universal helpfulness.

He was not interested in schemes whereby one country might control the land, the sea or the air.

He was not concerned with the ambitions of imperialists who pretend to be crusaders or with the aims of tyrants who pose as the saviors of humanity.

He lived and died to enable every human being to derive the fullest benefit from his short stay on earth so that all men in all nations could rise above the ignominy of the grave and ascend with Him into the everlasting happiness of Paradise. He said:

"Remember, man, that thou art dust and unto dust thou shalt return."

THIS DAY is therefore a challenge to the whole world and to every man, woman and child in it.

Christ addressed His warning to EVERYBODY.

He did not exempt the kings, the emperors, the Hitlers, the Mussolinis and the Churchills.

They, too, are dust and they are going to return to dust.

And it will not matter whether they conquer the world, or make it safe for tyranny, imperialism or anarchy.

Their bodies, like those of their humblest subjects, will some day mold and crumble in the tomb.

All any of them will ever be able to present before the throne of God is his own soul.

The forty days of Lent should consequently be a period of devotion to the cause of peace and of search for the ways whereby it can be achieved.

Everyone, the highest official as much as the most obscure man and woman, ought to realize that life is transient and that there are things more desirable than gold and power.

More than fifty major wars claiming thousands of millions of human lives have been waged since the beginning of the Christian era.

Yet the wisdom of Divine utterance is as apparent today as it was twenty centuries ago.

And thousands of years after the present crop of war-mongers, interventionists, meddlers and mass murderers will have become dust it will continue to be apparent.

EASTER SUNDAY, for which all Christendom is now preparing, can be the glorious occasion of universal peace.

Without hypocrisy and in a spirit of genuine sincerity the whole world can acclaim the Saviour, victorious over death, rising from the darkness of the tomb into the brightness of Heaven.

Or men can pursue the pagan god of Mars and, on Easter day, be no better than the prehistoric Cave Man who knew nothing about God or Heaven and spent his life going into and out of his black cave with a blood-stained club on his shoulder.

All men are free to be disciples of Jesus or of Mars, but no man can ever be a disciple of both.

Each, and particularly those who are responsible for the present needless conflict, must choose between the two.

The period called Lent, which emphasizes this choice and encourages men to make it, can end war.

But, first, those who believe in Christ and His teachings, must observe Lent—or, at least, understand its meaning.

SUGGESTED as the motto for a city editor's desk is "In This Life We Want Nothing But Facts, Sir; Nothing But Facts—Dickens." . . . "Name your six favorite popular songs of love, sir," says a Seattle subscriber. Off-hand, ma'am, I would say they were "These Little Things Remind Me of You," "Dear Old Girl," "Smoke Gets in Your Eyes," "That Old Feeling," "Only a Paper Moon" and "Love Walked In" . . . Yesterday I saw Maurice Costello, star of the cradle days of the cinema and a contemporary of John Bunny, Floss Finch, Wally Van, Max Linder and Lillian "Dimples" Walker. Ask your mom if she remembers Maurice. He may have been one of her youthful heart-throbs.

PASSING BY: Pat Shanley. Pioneer boniface, Pat says in 1903 he was room clerk at the Hotel Pabst, Broadway and Forty-Second st., Manhattan. One of his bell-hops was Hugh Herbert, now the celebrated screen comedian. Mr. Shanley says Hugh was a good bell-hop, and the only time he had to call him down was one night when Frankie Bailey, "the girl with the million dollar legs," passed through the lobby and young Herbert began to loudly whistle a then popular tune: "I'd Leave My Happy Home for You." The Hotel Pabst was on the site now occupied by the Times Building in Times Square . . . Dr. E. Anderson Jardine. Officiated at the wedding of the Duke and

IT IS SAID when an important controversy is agitating the public mind that in nine cases out of ten the clearest thinking is supplied by humorists. This certainly was true in case of Will Rogers . . . "Why print what bachelors say about marriage," writes a Boston girl. "It doesn't mean anything. Bachelors never having had any responsibility, have a childish viewpoint of life. Besides, when you see a bachelor over 49 you are usually looking at a social wash-out. If he amounted to anything, some smart girl would have married him whether he liked it or not. It is often said 'all the nice men are married.' You bet they are; we women see to that."

MY DAY

WASHINGTON, Tuesday—We had rather an interesting press conference yesterday morning, and I learned a great deal about the present need for nurses in both the Army and Navy. The American Red Cross registers these nurses and tries to keep an up-to-date list, but, of course, the average nurse thinks of being called into the services only in case of war.

Here we are facing a situation where we are not at war and yet where we have a dislocation of population. Young men who would ordinarily be taken care of in their homes, are suddenly placed in a camp for training.

The Army, particularly, needs a great many more nurses than they have had in the regular service. By the first of June, in fact, they want several thousand to report for duty. I believe when the facts are brought to their attention, many young nurses will answer this call.

How quickly things change! A few years ago, I received many letters from nurses who could not find work. When I went to the graduation exercises in the Harlem Hospital School for Nurses this winter, I was told there are not enough nurses in training to meet the needs of the New York city institutions alone.

OF COURSE, the standards have been raised. They need a better educational background and the training is stricter. It seems to me to be good training for a girl, whether she is going to earn her own living or is going to marry and live in a community.

It will help her as a wife, mother and neighbor. If she takes up nursing as a profession, it offers her great satisfaction in service, as well as a fairly secure livelihood.

Miss Mary Beard, national director of Red Cross Nursing Service; Maj. Julia O. Flikke, superintendent of U. S. Army Nurse Corps, and Miss Sue S. Dausser, superintendent of U. S. Navy Nurse Corps, spoke to me

bers of my press conference yesterday, so I am sure that the conditions under which nurses enter the services are well understood throughout the country.

MY AFTERNOON yesterday was spent seeing people who were interested in special fields. In the evening, Mr. Frederick M. Davenport brought his group, the National Institute of Public Affairs, to spend the evening. These young people asked many searching questions. They are an intelligent group of young people and I have always enjoyed meeting them every year.

They spend a year here in the government service and know many of the difficulties and complexities of government machinery. Last night I was interested to hear that well over two-thirds of them are either in the federal service, or in state government service and are seriously undertaking these careers as a life work. It speaks well for the future of democracy and I wish every success to them.

BIG JOB EXPECTED FOR HOPKINS

Harry Hopkins

By Leonard Lyons

NEW YORK, Feb. 26—HARRY HOPKINS: Was the decision made during your Hyde Park visit that you will become the Administrator of the Lend-Lease Bill as soon as it is passed by Congress? . . . RKO: Charles Laughton will submit to an operation this week. He phoned his wife the news last night . . . COLONEL LINDBERGH: Major Sascha Seversky, winner of the Harmon Trophy, will receive additional recognition from Washington shortly . . . ASCAP: Oscar Strauss, composer of "The Chocolate Soldier"—who arrived in this country a few weeks ago—has completed his first job. He's arranged the show at Greta's, the Viennese restaurant on Central Park South.

CLARENCE DYKSTRA: The men in charge of the entertainment for all Army and Navy camps were anxious to secure the services of Moss Hart. But the playwright discovered that he's not eligible for that work—because his age is one week within the draft limit . . . J. EDGAR HOOVER: The Reds have had a difficult time of it trying to find a successor to Earl Browder . . . LORD HALIFAX: Is it true that when Rene de Chamarin, Laval's son-in-law, returned to France he traveled with an English passport—and his baggage wasn't examined in Bermuda? . . . L. B. MAYER: Greta Garbo, who has been ailing here, entrained for Hollywood yesterday. Her new picture, written by Reich and Viertel, in which she'll play twin roles, will be made by Gottfried Reinhardt. Sam Behrman, whose new play opens tonight, will write the dialogue for it and will leave this week . . . Miss Garbo's friend, Dr. Gaylord Hauser, still is in New York. The dietitian now is suggesting garlic for all ladies who attend his diet lectures. When Garbo objected to this, Dr. Hauser assured: "It's quite all right—a little garlic for all who come" . . . "Add a little more garlic," Garbo warned him, "and NOBODY will come."

WILLIAM SHIRER: If Clare Boothe finds it too difficult to cast "The Yohimbe Tree," the new play she's written with Alex King, her plan is to forego the theater for a while and go to Berlin as a correspondent . . . CONNIE BROWN: All the money Quentin Reynolds now is collecting during his tour will be deposited in a fund to be called "The Heywood Brown Memorial Fund." It will be paid to the American dependents of flyers of the Eagle Squadron who are killed in action . . . A. C. BLUMENTHAL: Your wife, Peggy Fears, is flying back from Florida to open at the Hurricane . . . SONG PLUGGERS: Andy Buff, assigned to plug "Wait Till She Sees You in Your Uniform," has just been conscripted.

ELSA MAXWELL: Here's a new note in party giving. Last week a noted editor went straight from his office to the Stork Club nearby. He told Sherman Billingsley that he was tired and needed a nap. Billingsley directed him to the Club Room annex—where he seated himself on a comfortable chair, rested his head on the table and dozed . . . When the editor awoke two hours later, he found himself surrounded by 15 of his friends—all seated at a long table. And he was sitting at the head of the table—guest of honor at this impromptu dinner! . . . WARDEN LAWES: Persons convicted of a felony, no matter how able or honorable they now have become, are being classified 4-F in the draft call, which means they'll never be called . . . CORDELL HULL: Have you seen John Gunther yet? He's just returned from Latin America. He's the only man who ever has visited all 20 republics—and interviewed the heads of 18 of them and the Foreign Ministers of all.

EQUITY: Ruby Douglas, the veteran newspaper woman, will have her first play, "Angel Child," produced at the Millpond Playhouse next month. She's been writing for 30 years . . . BILL ROBINSON: Garbo went to Harlem last week. She visited the Savoy Ballroom—and not a single person paid any attention to her . . . GARY COOPER: Paramount must arrange a deal with Goldwyn for your services—because Hemingway's contract of sale for his book provided specifically that you were to get the Robert Jordan role . . . and the author already has received his full payment.

PEGGY FEARS

LESSON IN SENTIMENT

"DEAR GEORGE.

"A thousand thanks for your characteristic sympathy for ASCAP.

"This is the first letter I have written in many weeks . . . I have been working 20 hours a day for several months . . . I haven't had time to do the things I wanted most to do—to acknowledge kindnesses from old friends . . . The brawl is so intense that I haven't had time to try to answer letters . . . Yet, I presume to regard your thoughts, as projected through your column, as personal communications from you to me.

"Among the hundreds of stories and columns and articles in the press all over the United States last week about my old pal, Billy Hill, I ran across one by 'Peter Kennedy' . . . I pulled that story out of the pile and took it home . . . Then I read it over (in bed) . . . It moved me deeply and I made a note that at the first possible opportunity I would write to 'Peter Kennedy' and thank him for a swell story about a modern Stephen Foster (which I always thought Billy Hill was) . . . He resembled Foster because he owned a great gift, and a great weakness . . . Or, say, a couple of both.

"If Billy was a son to me, I certainly was nothing less than a father to him . . . (or vice versa) . . . I was devoted to him because our feeling for one another was mutual . . . If I were in trouble, I knew that I could have called on him . . . The converse had been proved . . . I do think that, throughout the years, I was the one person in this whole world to whom Billy looked for guidance.

"I ALWAYS CONSIDERED it a privilege to treat Billy like one of my own boys (or like yours, George) . . . Our friendship was a very unusual one . . . With the present controversy going on, and with all those hostile stories about ASCAP engaging the attention of the public, you can imagine, George, how pleasant it was to read the 'Peter Kennedy' story . . . One of our members sent it along—a few days after I read one of your columns favoring us . . . I made a mental note to write and thank the guy who so feelingly passed on to us the troubadour who had the qualities of Ring Lardner and Edgar Allan Poe and Stephen Foster, as well as certain guys whose frailties you and I so well understood.

And now comes the O'Henry-like snapper . . . I learned today that YOU wrote the 'Peter Kennedy' story, and that 'Peter Kennedy' was your grandfather, a revered newspaperman who lost his life while battling the Boston fire of '72 . . . I learned today, George, that you were 'Peter Kennedy,' so I tossed aside all other problems to write you this note of thanks . . . I have a vivid recollection of an evening of many years ago when you brought to my house a pair of young college kids who had written a show . . . They were unknown and you insisted that they should be known—and you saw in their work the spark of genius which nobody else in New York, at the time, had discovered . . . Their names were Rodgers and Hart—Dick and Larry . . . Larry Hart and Dick Rodgers, composers of so many hits which do not need mentioning.

NANCY GAY

She Can Sing Like an Expert

Lots of things have happened since you and I have browsed together in the quiet of our mortgage (you and Dot, and Helea, and I) . . . It was marvelous of you to write so sincerely of Billy Hill . . . Billy was worth it . . . He was worth anything anyone wrote . . . One of these days—it may take a long while—America will come to appreciate his worth, or value . . . Thanks, a million, George.

GENE BUCK, President, ASCAP

ONCE OVER LIGHTLY: The outstanding toast of the town is pert young Nancy Gay, who hails—in her off-moments—from San Antonio . . . Nancy sings a ballad, a "hot" song, or a rumba . . . And she sings them all like an expert . . . No expert, for that matter, sings them better!

Hollywood Today

TYRONE POWER GETS NEW FILM ROLE

By Louella O. Parsons

Tyrone Power

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 26—The rumor has persisted for months that Warners are trying to borrow Tyrone Power for "Kings Row," but something tells me 20th Century-Fox would rather loan their sound stages than to let Ty leave the home lot. He would be good, there's no doubt, in "King's Row" as the idealistic young doctor but 20th has a few up their sleeve, too. In "A Yank in the RAF."

Ty will wear a British uniform. This isn't just one of those movies with maybe, if and but, for it goes into production one week after "Blood and Sand" is finished. Darryl Zanuck, who is a lieutenant-colonel in the reserve, handles the entire production.

That reminds me, Darryl is flying to Washington to confer with the general staff of the U. S. Army about the defense shorts that are being made here.

Captain James Adams of the RAF acts as technical advisor in "A Yank in the RAF," which will have the official stamp of Lord Beaverbrook, head of British aircraft production. Shots have already been made in England of the RAF in action, so you see you'll be seeing it soon.

SNAPSHOTS OF HOLLYWOOD: Elaine Barrie came into the Mocambo with one escort and spent the entire evening talking to Norman Kerry; Constance Moore was the sensation of the place with a wrist watch radio which she dropped into glass of water and it played a tune.

Imagine how that would affect an alcoholic. He would probably be off water for the rest of his life; Connie was at the Lynn Fontanne opening at the Biltmore earlier and she looked like a picture.

Alfred Lunt took eleven curtain calls at the theater and made a speech that delighted everyone. All the Pasadena socialites turned out for the opening while the rest of the week the house is sold out to movie celebrities; Mike Romanoff wires he is hosting a cocktail party for Jack and Charlie of 21 tomorrow at his own cafe; since Lionel Barrymore was flooded out of his Chatsworth ranch his pals have dubbed him the Admiral of San Fernando Valley.

JOHN CARROLL spends many of his evenings at the Florentine Gardens and Barbara Moffett is said to be the attraction; Rosemary Lane's hair is now blitzkrieg blonde, thanks to the boy friend, Buddy Westmore, Perc's young brother; Lillian Gish will not make the movie, "Ladies in Retirement." She plans to remain with the "Life With Father" company even after it leaves Chicago; Gloria Jean, who idolizes Basil Rathbone, finally met her hero and now she is asking Joe Pasternak to let her play in "Dear Brutus" with him.

The Barrie play would be wonderful with Gloria Jean and Basil; a very cute foursome—Richard Barthelmess, his wife, his daughter Mary Hay and Benny Bacon, a young friend of hers from Boston.

"THE DAM," which captured the fancy of Louis B. Mayer because it had the feeling of "Boom Town," was bought today by M-G-M, and the talk now is that the studio will try to get the same set-up, Clark Gable, Spencer Tracy and Claudette Colbert for its stars. The author, Lester Cohen, adapted the never-to-be-forgotten "Of Human Bondage" and also authored "Sweepings." This story is unpublished but it's good movie stuff, according to those who have read it, and it will be filmed later this year with the imposing lineup or one just as good, that made "Boom Town" one of the best movie sellers of last year.

HAD A LONG TALK with Charlie Chaplin. I wish some of the doubting ones who have intimated that he has said adieu to Paulette Goddard, could have heard him speak of her. He is planning a new picture and Paulette will have a big part. In fact, I rather suspect he is preparing it with Paulette in view. He is extremely proud of what she has accomplished on the screen and says she has done it completely on her own without his aid. He recalled the peasant day he and Paulette had at Marson's farm and said they would be out very soon again.

You Can Be Beautiful

A Clear Skin For Men, Too

By ARLINE GOULD

"Sissy" is no word to describe a man who wants a clear, smooth skin, free of ugly blemishes, pimples, and enlarged pores. The weaker sex . . . we mean women! . . . isn't too proud to seek a "beauty aid" to clear up a skin condition . . . besides, cosmetics do help a little in covering blemishes. Pity the men, however . . . every blemish is laid bare to the world!

The stern sex will sit up and take notice at today's news. For it is a medicated cream that does wonders at clearing up the skin . . . and there's no good looks, male or female, that hasn't flawless complexion for basis.

This milestone of the highway to attractiveness boasts no fancy, fussy packaging . . . ribbons, pastel hues, doodads and such . . . just a simple little white jar, containing a minor miracle-worker. Neither is the cream perfumed . . . to offend he-man sensibilities.

Regularity is the secret of success with this cream . . . if you use it . . . faithfully . . . every single night out of seven . . . then alone will it accomplish the wonders it can. Apply the cream each night to a scrupulously clean face. In a few seconds, the sluggish circulation that causes poor skin will start, for the ointment's magic has begun to work.

Normal skin should be allowed to devour this medicated formula for at least half an hour . . . better still, all night . . . In certain cases . . . when the skin is super-

Lenten Days Are Here

By MARTHA LEE

LENT AND fish-eating go hand in hand and it's well they do, for during Lent fish are at their best. The heavier spring supply develops and there are usually plenty of varieties to choose from.

This year Lent starts today, February 26, and ends April 12. During that period many people will be eating a great deal of fish on the Fast Days. With so many of the 160 varieties of fish and shellfish we get in this country available at that time, the clever homemaker will use many different kinds of fish. This will make for variety and eliminate any chance of monotony.

There is no reason why a different fish can't be used on each Fast Day. If other people use and like some type of fish that you have never used, there is every reason to believe you and your family will also like it. There is nothing like trying, and the adventure of using another variety will bring dividends.

Because the production of fish is so unpredictable and uncertain, there will be some fish that will be very plentiful and others very scarce during Lent. Those that are plentiful will most likely be lowest in price. Therefore, the Lady of the Kitchen who shops according to what is plentiful in the market and forgets old favorites that might be high at that time, obtains a bargain and secures a change which her family will welcome.

Preparation is important, for the best fish can be spoiled by improper cooking. Here are some suggestions for delicious fish dishes:

BAKED STUFFED FISH FILLETS

1½ lbs. fish fillets
1 tsp. salt
Fish stuffing
2 tbsp. melted butter or salad oil
Wash fillets and wipe with cloth. Sprinkle with salt. Coat fillets and secure with toothpicks. Arrange on greased oven-proof platter. Fill fillet ribs with stuffing. Brush tops of fillets with melted butter or salad oil. Bake in hot oven (450 deg. F.) 15 to 20 minutes, until fish flakes when tried with fork. Garnish with sliced tomatoes. Serve with mashed potatoes or potatoes with parsley butter, and lima beans in cream. Makes 6 servings.

FISH STUFFING

2 cups soft bread crumbs
2 tbsp. lemon juice
1 tsp. salt
¼ tsp. pepper
½ cup chopped parsley
¼ cup butter, melted
2 tbsp. lemon juice
Combine all ingredients and mix well. Use for stuffing fish or fish fillets. Makes about two cups of stuffing, enough for one 3 or 4-pound fish or six fish fillets.

TOMATO SAUCE

2 cups canned or sliced fresh tomatoes
1 bay leaf
4 cloves
2 slices onion
1 tsp. sugar
1 sprig parsley
4 peppercorns
¼ tsp. celery salt
2 tbsp. butter
2 tbsp. flour
½ tsp. salt
Cook tomatoes, bay leaf, cloves, onion, sugar, parsley, peppercorns, and celery salt in 1-quart saucepan over low heat until mixture thickens through a sieve. Melt butter in small saucepan, and stir in flour and salt. When well blended, add tomato puree, stirring constantly over low heat until mixture thickens and boils. This sauce may be served with baked fish, croquettes or timbales, and meat loaf. Makes about 1 cup.

FISH FILLETS WITH TOMATO SAUCE

1½ lbs. fish fillets
3 tbsp. melted butter or salad oil
1 tsp. salt
¼ tsp. pepper
¼ cups tomato sauce
Wash fillets and wipe with cloth. Cut in pieces for serving. Arrange fillets on greased oven-proof platter, sprinkle with salt and pepper, and brush with melted butter or salad oil. Pour sauce over fish. Bake in very hot oven (500 deg. F.) about 10 minutes, until fish flakes when tried with a fork. Makes 6 servings.

For Joyful Cough Relief, Try This Home Mixture

Real Relief. Big Saving. So Easy. No Cooking.

This splendid recipe is used by millions every year, because it makes such a dependable, effective remedy for coughs due to colds. It's so easy to mix—a child could do it.

From any drugist, get 2½ ounces of Pinex, a compound containing Norway Pine and palatable guaicol, in concentrated form, well-known for its soothing effect on throat and bronchial membranes.

Then make a syrup by stirring two cups of granulated sugar and one cup of water a few moments, until dissolved. It's no trouble at all, and takes but a moment. No cooking needed.

Put the Pinex into a pint bottle and add your syrup. This gives you a full pint of very effective and quick-acting cough remedy, and you get about four times as much for your money. It cures colds, and is very pleasant—children love it.

You'll be amazed by the way it takes hold of coughs, giving you delightful relief. It loosens the phlegm, soothes the irritated membranes, and helps clear the air passages. Money refunded if not pleased in every way.

Smart Set Functions

By BETTY ALDEN

AS sure a sign of spring as the big bunches of yellow forsythia on display in florists' windows, is the news that a group of young suburban socialites interested in the Florence Crittenton League is already planning the annual barn dance to benefit the League . . .

Mrs. Richard Kenney of Auburndale is chairman of the group arranging the party which will be a costume dance on April 26th . . . Mrs. Dorothy Whipple Fry's rustic barn, which always lends itself admirably to a gay informal party, will be the setting for the dance . . .

Assisting Mrs. Kenney on the general committee are Mrs. Richard Dort, Miss Margaret Edgar, Miss Grace Westlake, Mrs. Reeve Betts, and Mrs. Frank Farwell . . . Many dinner and cocktail parties will be given preceding the affair . . .

VERY FEW can boast of as lavish a round of pre-nuptial festivities as are being held in New Orleans, Louisiana before the wedding of Peter Alsop and Bettie Martin on Friday . . .

The famous annual Mardi Gras celebration is being held this week and those who have gone down for the wedding are also having an opportunity to enjoy the picturesque festivities . . .

Peter's father, Mr. Francis J. O. Alsop of Boston flew from here to New Orleans in time to join his daughter Camilla and her husband F. Lee H. Wendell to review the colorful Mardi Gras parade yesterday from the terrace of the Boston Club in the southern city . . . Camilla and Lee now live in Cleveland . . .

For the wedding ceremony Friday morning Mr. Alsop will serve as his son's best man . . . The knot will be tied at the New Orleans home of the bride's parents, Dr. and Mrs. Joseph Denegre . . . The bridegroom-to-be attended the Brooks School and has been in business in New Orleans for five years . . . Bettie attended Newcomb College and was a popular member of this season's debutante set in New Orleans . . .

PRISCILLA DAMON'S friends can tease her about being a flustered bride and not knowing whether it's June or January by reminding her that in the note she wrote us yesterday about details for the wedding she filled in the date of the ceremony as "January 15th" . . . In reality the ceremony is to be this coming Saturday, March 1st! . . . We checked up and found that she's confused the date with the day her father announced her engagement . . .

OUR FAMOUS monologists seem to spring up in distinctly social atmosphere . . . When Ruth Draper plays her next week a large share of the applause will come from old friends of her distinguished and aristocratic Gotham family . . .

Miss Draper has carved out a career for herself as a monologist—one of the most difficult phases of theatrical art—and has drawn upon her wide social experiences for material for her skits . . . Of recent years, her nephew, Paul Draper, has become a dance celebrity and together they are coming to Boston to present something new in shows . . . a two-artist affair in which Ruth presents her monologues and Paul his inimitable dance routines . . .

The opening night, at the Plymouth, is being sponsored by a prominent group of Bostonians as a benefit for the Waldensian Aid Society . . .

Among the most recent patronesses for the opening night are Mrs. Roger Ernst, Mrs. Donald McLaughlin, Mrs. Brenton H. Dickson, Mrs. Edward Jackson Holmes, Mrs. Fritz B. Talbot, Mrs. John G. Coolidge Jr., Mrs. Melville Bigelow, Mrs. I. Tucker Burr, Mrs. Arthur H. Morss, Mrs. George Plimpton, Mrs. B. H. Bristow Draper, Miss Mary Cooper, Mrs. Julian Coolidge, Mrs. J. GOLF COURSES LURE BOSTON GOLFERS

Warm sea breezes and excellent golf courses have lured the Donald Falveys of Chestnut Hill and the Fred Currans of Brookline to Miami Beach where they are vacationing at the Pancoast.

They arrived on the same train with Mrs. Bernard J. Hogue of Providence, who was accompanied by her daughter, Mrs. Virginia Barnes of Oyster Harbors.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Edward Downes of Winchester are also making their annual visit to the Southland and are registered at the Pancoast.

TIME OUT for a chat about coming spring activities, enjoyed by George Thomson and debutante Barbara Higginson who were photographed doing their bit for charity at a recent ball. Auburn haired Barbara is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Lee Higginson of Beacon st.

Fashion Show

Women's City Club Sponsor

A change of season brings a change in fashions for Milady and in order to get a good idea of what's what for the 1941 Easter Parade, members of the Women's City Club are planning a fashion show and bridge party at the clubhouse on Thursdays.

Bridge tables will be set up in the lavish new crystal and red ballroom and after a spirited round of duplicate, guests will sit back and enjoy a cup of tea while previewing the latest styles.

Miss John A. Tuckerman is presenting the show and her group of attractive, society models includes Lucy Goddard, Anne Blake, Mrs. Russell Hargrave, Eleanor Frothingham, Peggy Parker, Anne Phillips, Ruth Robb, Mrs. John Scott, Mrs. Sanford K. Taylor and Candice Warren.

Among those planning to attend are Mrs. Thomas Allen, Jr., Mrs. George Frost, Mrs. Henry Lee Higginson, Mrs. Harold G. Tobey, Mrs. Samuel Zimmern, Mrs. George H. Weather, Mrs. Mary La. Wadsworth, Mrs. T. L. Wheeler, Mrs. Carol Whitely, Mrs. Edward W. Lott, Mrs. William W. Dewey and the Messrs. Florence and Lilian Dustin.

SPRING IS IN FULL SWING IN BERMUDA

Springtime is in full swing at Bermuda, where members of the Boston colony have been adding to the festivities with a round of parties. Dr. and Mrs. W. T. Porter of Boston and "Dover House," Tucker's Town, entertained at a dinner party for 150 guests and Mrs. William Hopkins Beck.

Together with their daughter, Mrs. Hilda Porter Heflinger of Boston, and Mr. and Mrs. William Parker of Yarmouth, the Porters were among 500 guests entertained at a reception given in the new headquarters of the English Speaking Union, Hamilton.

Consult Boy's Parents

DEAR MRS. BECKMAN:

I am planning to have an engagement reception. It was a day after plans had been made before I had an opportunity of calling up my fiancée's parents. I was criticized by them for not asking them if my plans for a reception were agreeable to them.

I intend that because I am making the plans for the affair, it is not necessary to consult them in the matter other than to invite them.

Please tell me whether I am right in taking this attitude. G. I agree with you that there was no reason why your fiancée's mother and father should have criticized you for not consulting with them about your reception. After all, you did let them know at once.

However, if I were you, I'd learn a lesson from the fact that they were so outspoken in their reactions to your plans. Apparently they are the kind of people who like to be consulted about things, and so, to promote peace and good will in the future you had better make a special point of talking plans over with them.

It's very important, as you know, to start things off on the right foot when you are to have such close relationships with people, and it will take only some wise forethought to take them into your confidence and thus keep them contented and happy.

Initial Problem Solved by Bride

DEAR MRS. BECKMAN:

I am getting married soon, and I have two problems about initials which I would be so grateful if you will answer.

1—I maintain that all linens and silverware should have only my initials on them. Am I right?

2—Also, on my wedding ring, is it not proper to have my maiden initials engraved? For example, A. B. to C. D., the latter being my initials.

1—Either form of marking the future bride's linens and silver is correct. This is a question that the bride-to-be must decide for herself. She may prefer as you do, and quite correctly, to abide by the convention that used to be the unwritten law—that all silver and linens have the bride's maiden initials.

She may take the point of view of many of today's brides; that having their linens and silver marked with their maiden initials will be confusing in their new homes; that it is more practical to mark everything with their future initials.

As a matter of fact, because there is so much indecision about this question, very often thoughtful relatives and friends refrain from having their wedding gifts of silver or linen marked until they determine from the bride-to-be which form she prefers.

Yes, the initials of your maiden name are used in the marking of the wedding ring. A. B. to C. D., Jan. 22, 1941. Very often the form A. B. and C. D. is used. And sometimes, for the date, only numbers are used: 1, 2, 3, 4.

LISTEN, WORLD!

By Elsie Robinson

"Why don't you," says she, "write more about the war and national defense like the other columnists do?"

Write about defense? That's all I'm doing these days, lady. Maybe you don't recognize it as such because I don't quote a lot of statistics or give the government a daily shellacking. But you can bet your last nickel that the "defense" I'm writing about is the only kind that will protect this country now or save it in the future. And that defense is personally up to you.

FOR GUNS WON'T SAVE AMERICA—SHIPS AND SUBMARINES AND PLANES WON'T SAVE AMERICA—TRAINED TROOPS OR TRICK MANEUVERS WON'T SAVE AMERICA—THE ONLY THING THAT CAN SAVE AMERICA IS THE CHARACTER OF OUR AMERICAN CITIZENS. THEIR FAITH... THEIR VISION... THEIR WILLING SACRIFICES AND RED-HOT DETERMINATION.

AMMUNITION is a great thing to have. But the only ammunition that really turns the trick in the long run is CHARACTER.

We're only as great as our dreams... only as powerful as our determination to put those dreams across.

America wasn't built on bullets or bayonets nor preserved by motorized units. We fought when we had to fight, but the secret of our success did not lie in those antiquated muskets. It lay in the fire that burned in the hearts of the hungry, ragged men behind them... in the faith and courage of their women they had left at home... in the visions of freedom and equality which inspired them all.

Freedom and quality weren't mere words then. They weren't something you took for granted as we now take trolley cars and chewing gum. They were something you won out of your own sweat and tears.

They were something new and glorious in human history, which few men had known before or ever dared to imagine. And because of them, those homeless fathers of ours dared a savage wilderness—AND MADE AMERICA!

And now we think we can save that America with guns? Let us not delude ourselves.

We can only save America with character! By doing our little daily chores decently and gallantly.

ly, no matter how obscure or monotonous they may seem.

We may have thousands of planes and destroyers... mountings of munitions and endless regiments of troops.

But we will only be as strong and as sure as the most obscure family in city tenement or prairie dugout.

Only Americanism can save America.

Why is Hitler, that monstrous blight, so victorious? He is victorious because he believes in his cause and his destiny, and has persuaded the German people to believe as he believes.

Do not be deceived. This is not "a war of ideas." It is a war of faith. And it will go to those who have the greatest faith in their way of life and are willing to make the greatest sacrifices for it.

Love and Marriage

Rookie Gets Faint Heart

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

Recently I was drafted for training in the army, and now that I'm away from home I do get lonesome. I went to a nearby church where they had a party, and I met a girl. I've been to her home and met her folks, and they seem very nice to me but I have a feeling I'm too poor to go out with her. She has a swell home and everything about her is prosperous. Do you think I ought to keep on visiting her or not? DOUBTFUL.

Where is your courage and your ambition, my dear boy, that you're afraid to continue a delightful friendship with a girl just because she happens to live in a "swell" home? I have to remind you of the old adage, "Faint heart never won fair lady." Even if you never marry her, nothing is more advantageous than a friendship with a nice girl who has the background of a lovely home.

WHEN COLDS THREATEN

Do what sensible people have done since 1855. Take Father John's Medicine. It builds new resisting power. Rich in vitamins A and D.

STOP AND THINK WHY

Millions of people during 85 years have used Father John's Medicine to treat colds and as a body builder. This is because its high reputation is built on proven merit.

85 YEARS
AN AID IN FIGHTING

FATHER JOHN'S MEDICINE

THE SUN was shining and the sky was blue as delit china, and it was Janet Livingston's 26th birthday. She could look out the window at the lovely day, and open her really very nice presents, and at the same time feel inside of her that it was one of the most depressing occasions she'd ever had a part in.

It wasn't just that being 26 marked the end of an era, though that was part of it. After you passed the 25 mark you were automatically ruled out of the "young girl" class. You advanced or receded, according to how you looked at it, into the young married and not-so-young-unmarried set.

She wouldn't mind that. There was already a gap in her age and that of the other girls in her clubs. Most of them were 19 and 20. Already the girls with whom she had gone to school were all settled with homes and husbands and babies. And they were trying to see that she should have the same kind of good luck.

Whenever they had dinners they invited an extra man for Janet. Sometimes these men were attractive and then she enjoyed herself. But lately she hadn't been very fortunate. She knew that when a husband brought home a business contact who was dull and a little paunchy and said to his wife, "Hi, there. Which one of your friends wouldn't mind taking him off our hands for a while?" the wife answered airily, "Oh, Janet will do it."

And Janet did it every time. It was the same way at home. She was quite independent and had her own income but you never would have known it from the way her three aunts ordered her around. When one of them felt chilly and needed a jacket from her closet upstairs, she didn't ask a maid to get it. She always said, "Janet will do it," and so Janet did.

TIME TO REBEL

But on her 26th birthday, she decided that the time had come for a change. And the only way to accomplish it was to get away for a while. Maybe if she stayed away for a few months they'd stop taking her so much for granted.

So on that birthday morning she told her aunts she had taken a small house in Connecticut. It was not the season for it, and no one of importance would be anywhere near. Her aunts thought she had lost her mind and they advanced so many good arguments against her going, that she was almost convinced. And then her Aunt Alice proved the deciding factor in the affair.

When they saw her determination wavering the aunts were wise enough to change the subject. They knew their niece would think over what they said and be convinced. So they started discussing a very dull political tea which one of their friends was having in a few days. Janet didn't pay much attention to the conversation until she heard her aunt Alice say, "She needed another girl to help serve, but all the young people seem to be so busy these days. But I told her, of course Janet would do it."

Janet's coffee cup clattered in its saucer. "Oh, but I won't be able to help out at the tea, Aunt Alice," she said coldly and definitely. "I'll be leaving tomorrow for Connecticut."

The Cast of Characters in "Janet Will Do It"

JANET LIVINGSTON, who tires at doing favors for others and rents an isolated cottage.

MR. DEACON, Janet's nearest neighbor who asks Janet to take care of a mistake as BETSY, the youngster whom Mr. Deacon believes to be quite ill.

Janet Will Do It

By Terry James

She let their talk swirl around her, but she didn't change her mind. She was on the one o'clock train out of Grand Central the next day. "She didn't think she had made a mistake as she watched a snow-covered New England countryside rush by. This was just what she needed. A change of scenery and a chance to be by herself.

She was certainly by herself, she found, when the taxi let her out at the door of her new home. It was several miles from the small town, and she could just see the roof top of her nearest neighbor. She wondered vaguely who lived there, but it didn't really matter to her. What did matter was that now she would have time to read all the books she'd been wanting to read, and finish knitting the sweater she'd started months before. She wouldn't be sent off to serve at a boring tea or summoned to amuse a dull business man.

She did ask Mary, the girl who was going to work for her by the day, who lived in the neighboring house.

"Mr. Deacon, and his little girl," Mary told her.

"Isn't there a Mrs. Deacon?" "If there is I haven't seen her, Miss Livingston."

"How old is the little girl?"

"She can't be over four."

Janet was mildly interested now. She wondered briefly what had happened to Mrs. Deacon, and whether the little girl was getting the proper care. But Mary said they hadn't lived there long and she didn't know any more about them.

So Janet let the matter drop. She had so many other things to do. She took long walks every day, and read and knitted. It was after a snow storm that she first met Mr. Deacon. She was reading by the window when she saw a tall, red-headed man plowing through snow up to his knees. Janet answered the door to his knock and he stamped his feet carefully before he came into the hall.

"I'm awfully sorry to disturb you," he said, "but my little girl's sick, and I'm afraid it will take the doctor some time to get out here. I'm worried that the trouble may be an attack of appendicitis. I wonder if you would know?" He asked it doubtfully, as if he didn't know anyone is smartly dressed and made up as she was to know an attack of appendicitis from an ache.

"You'd be surprised at how efficient I am," she said, answering the question in his eyes.

"The girl who works for us didn't come this morning. I guess she couldn't get through the snow. And I don't know a thing about sickness," he told her as they trudged through drifts. "The only thing I could think of when Betsy complained of a stomach ache was appendicitis."

"It may not be that at all," she reassured him, "Children are always getting pains and upset stomachs." And she was pretty sure there was nothing to worry about when she saw the little girl. She admitted to Janet that she had eaten two green cooking apples which she hadn't mentioned to her father, that wasn't the worst. She kept remembering how he looked when he laughed, and how kind his eyes were.

JANET ASKS QUESTIONS

He returned her hospitality in a few days. He had a wonderful dinner and she had another wonderful time. She was really worried now. She thought about the man all the time. Finally when she could bear the suspense no longer she questioned him in what she thought was going to be a subtle way.

"Are you a New Englander?" she asked.

"No, I'm from the Middle West originally."

"Have you been up here before?"

"Oh yes. I used to spend all my vacations here."

Here was the spot for her to strike.

"Is your wife from this part of the country?"

He looked at her blankly for a minute and she thought she had offended him. And then he laughed.

"I haven't any wife," he said.

"But Betsy—"

"She's my brother's child. He and his wife were killed two years ago."

She was amazed at the way which his words lifted from her heart. From then on she was very busy falling in love. And she knew

John loved her although he didn't say anything until one day when he and Betsy were teasing marshmallows in front of Janet's fire.

"Janet," he said then, "you've been wonderful to Betsy. I never realized before how much a woman can do for a child. She needs someone like you to take care of her."

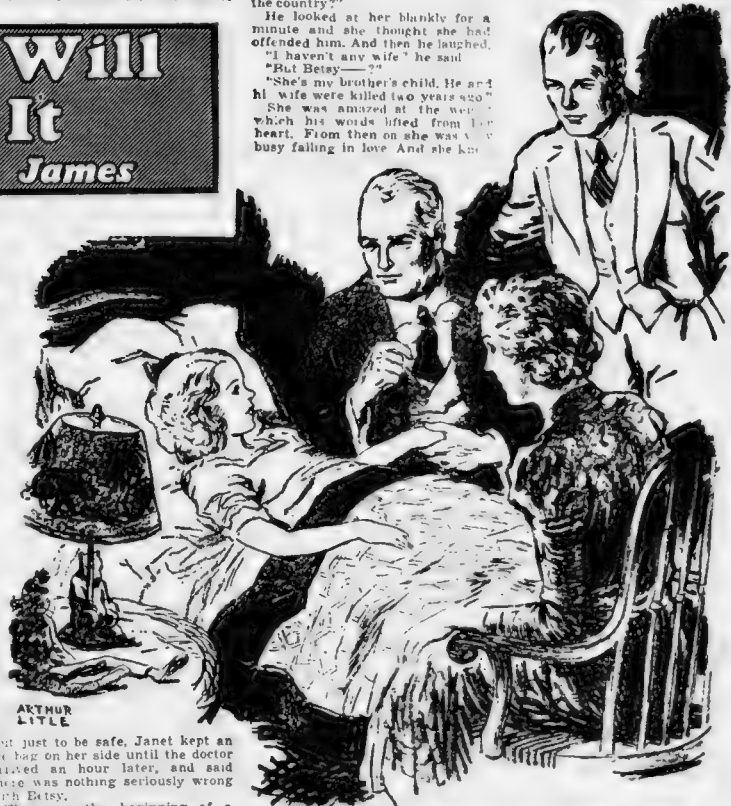

"Janet will do it," said Betsy eagerly.

"Will you?" as asked, and she saw that he needed her as much as Betsy did.

"Janet will do it," she agreed as she smiled into his eyes.

The End

Be sure to read Sanford Jarrall's amusing story on this page tomorrow. It is about a girl named Patricia who walks roughshod over a long line of manly hearts.

ARTHUR LITTLE

But just to be safe, Janet kept an ice bag on her side until the doctor arrived an hour later, and said there was nothing seriously wrong with Betsy.

That was the beginning of a close friendship. Betsy and Janet were immediate friends and took walks together every day. They made snowballs and threw them at each other, and coasted down the long hills. Janet was more reserved with Mr. Deacon. She didn't yet know what had happened to his wife, and Betsy never mentioned it.

But one night she felt like entertaining, and since he was the only person she knew, she asked him to have dinner at her house. It was perfectly alright, she assured herself. You couldn't ask for a better chaperon than Mary. Nothing escaped her narrow eyes.

She enjoyed the evening almost too much. She was annoyed to find herself thinking that John Deacon was amazingly well informed. And

There was nothing seriously wrong with Betty.

HENRY

Look Out, Mister!

SARASOTA, Fla., Feb. 26—Now that the Red Sox have started their training season I would like to see some of the young men who write baseball give more attention to Bobby Doerr, youthful Red Sox second baseman. I have always felt that Doerr has not received half of the credit to which he is entitled as the best all-round keystone guardian in the American League.

I recognize all of the excellent qualities of Joe (Flash) Gordon of the Yankees, but I shall still take Doerr for my money. He is fast, a good fielder, and a dangerous hitter in the clutch.

Even Detroit fans admit that Charley Gehringer has passed the days of his baseball greatness, and as a result any debate as to who is the better American League second baseman must be restricted to a discussion of the abilities of Doerr and Gordon. Doerr has not received as much publicity as he rates. The fact Bobby has Joe Cronin and Jimmy Foxx playing on either side of him has taken the limelight from his efforts. The baseball writers as well as the fans have been Cronin and Foxx minded. These two colorful stars have taken most of the headlines.

Doerr has also had to contend against other name stars like Lefty Grove, Ted Williams and now Dom DiMaggio.

Doerr made the big league grade when still in his teens. He has a dozen years of big league baseball ahead of him unless he meets with an injury. He will do his part in the rebuilding of the Red Sox machine.

When age counts out Foxx and Cronin, the youthful Doerr will still be carrying on and will prove one of the club's mainstays.

Max Baer Is Picking His Ring Spots

THERE IS STILL a note of caution in Max Baer's ring come back. His next effort will be against Lou Nova in the New York Garden.

After Baer knocked out Tony Galento in Jersey City last Summer, he could have had a September bout with Joe Louis if he had wished it. Such a match would have given Baer an opportunity to have redeemed himself for his knockout at the hands of the "Brown Bomber" and also a chance to have regained the heavyweight championship which he lost to Jimmy Braddock.

Ancil Hoffman, Baer's manager and wise in the affairs of the boxing game, asked a guarantee of $50,000 for a Louis bout and also a privilege of accepting 20 per cent. of the gate. This demand caused Mike Jacobs to run to cover and the proposed Louis-Baer bout was forgotten.

Hoffman knows Baer's ability better than anyone else, and he probably was not too keen for a Louis match. This is why he asked a guarantee of $50,000.

Hoffman later got $30,000 for Baer for a bout with Pat Comiskey. The youthful, inexperienced Comiskey was not a match for Baer and was knocked out in a round.

Baer is in as good condition as it is possible for him to get in at his present age. He has discarded much of his clowning, and he believes he can beat Lou Nova or any of the other heavyweight contenders.

If Billy Conn should have the good fortune to conquer Joe Louis in their title bout in June, you will find Baer clamoring for a September date with the Pittsburgher. Of course this program depends upon Baer defeating Nova.

Nova, like Baer, knocked out Comiskey, but he did not do it as impressively or as quickly as the former champion.

Conn's Chances Against Louis

IT HAS BEEN several years since boxing fans were as much

HUGH MULCAHY, PHILLIES STAR, CALLED TO COLORS

EVENING AMERICAN WEDNESDAY, FEB. 26, 1941

Hugh Noyes Mulcahy, 25-year-old right-hander, who came up from the Brighton sandlots to be one of the bright stars of the Phillies' pitching staff, got his marching orders today.

He will report for induction into the Army with the March 8 contingent of 47 draftees from Newton District No. 112, in which he now lives.

Mulcahy's appeal from the decision of his local board—based on the claim that he is engaged in "a necessary industry"—failed to find any sympathy with Appellate Board No. 3 at Cambridge.

The young pitcher, already a six-year veteran with the National League club, has made No. 283, and being so high on his district's list, did not go South for the training season this year. Which was just as well, considering.

Mulcahy had built his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Hugh T. Mulcahy, a magnificent home in Fair Oaks ave., Newton, and in framing his appeal said he didn't see how his parents could carry the place without his financial contributions. His father is a railroad freight conductor.

There was some talk during the winter that the Brooklyn Dodgers were after him to bolster their twinning division and that Business Manager Larry McPhail was willing to go as high as $75,000 for him, but when the selective service business came up, the deal flopped.

HUGH MULCAHY Called to Colors

Army Summons For Greenberg Due in May

DETROIT, Feb. 26 (AP)—A draft board official estimated today that Henry Greenberg, the Detroit Tigers' slugging outfielder, might be wearing an Army uniform sometime in May.

William H. Wells, chief clerk of board No. 23 with which Greenberg is listed, said the Tiger outfielder would be sent a notice to take a physical examination in 10 days or two weeks.

The board yesterday placed Greenberg in Class 1, and a physical examination will determine whether he will rate Class 1-A or Class 1-B. In the former division he would be pronounced physically fit and available for immediate general military service.

Wells estimated that if Greenberg is placed in Class 1A, he would probably be called for induction sometime in May.

The board refused to place Greenberg in Class 2—deferred because of occupation—although the Tiger outfielder said in his questionnaire that "it is my opinion that my classification should be Class 2 because my years of earning power are limited and one year out of action will reduce my effectiveness considerably."

Chuck Fenske Takes Vacation From Board Track

MADISON, Wis., Feb. 26 (AP)—Charles (Chuck) Fenske, an outstanding miler during 1940, has decided to quit racing, at least temporarily, on the advice of Tom C. Jones, University of Wisconsin coach, and his physician.

"Chuck failed to shake off the effects of a series of colds and sent him to Dr. John E. Bentley," Jones said. "The doctor found he was handicapped by congested nasal and larynx passages and advised him to rest and build up his resistance."

Fenske said that Fenske, currently employed in the Wisconsin National Youth Administration staff, probably would be ready to compete in outdoor races this spring.

Fear Gridiron Star Drowned

MORILE, ALA., Feb. 26 (AP)—Hope waned today for the safety of Ben Smith, assistant football coach at Spring Hill College, and Sidney Crowley, student athletic manager, who have been missing since Sunday on an excursion of Mobile Bay. They were on a fishing trip.

Searchers found their swamped skiff, two gasoline containers, an unopened package of cigarettes and a life preserver cushion. An airplane, several cabin cruiser and numerous small boats were employed in the search yesterday.

Smith formerly played football at the University of Alabama and with the Washington Redskins and Pittsburgh Steelers.

EL Second Socker Plays for Army Now

ALBANY, N. Y., Feb. 26 (AP)—Maurice Jacobs, the Eastern League's outstanding second baseman of 1940, will do his baseball playing—if any, this year for the Army.

Jacobs, whose signed contract reached Albany Club President Tom McCaffrey last week, wrote the Albany Times-Union he has been inducted under the Selective Service Act and is stationed at Fort Meade, Md.

MIKE RYBA SETS PACE FOR 'ROOKS'

By HERB FINNEGAN

SARASOTA, Fla., Feb. 26—We used to think Joe Cronin was the world's champion baseball enthusiast, but that was before we met Mike Ryba.

The 35-year-old Red Sox mound rookie was adjusting his tie before the clubhouse mirror. One of the new kids was striding toward the shower mumbling about a "tough workout."

Mike snorted in disgust: "Now wouldn't that make you sick," he said. "Kid's not 24 yet and he's talking about tough workouts. Me, I never looked on baseball as work. I always considered it a vacation."

"This is my 14th season in a training camp and I still like to play baseball better than anything else I ever tried."

Toward the close of the season when I hear some of the kids moan about "wishing the season was over," I say to myself, "Not me, boy. I wish it was just starting. This is fun. And I get paid for it, too."

"Trouble with these kids today," Mike went on, "is they were brought up too easy. High school and college and nice clothes and automobiles."

SENT MONEY HOME

"Me, I never had nuthin' like that. Old Mike used to be down in those soft coal mines up in Do Lancy, Pa., and anybody who was ever down on his hands and knees all winter diggin' coal wouldn't call baseball hard work."

"Yes, sir, I always told the boys in the mines when I was leaving for training camp that I was going on my summer vacation. And I meant it, too."

Mike sat down on the clubhouse bench wiping the perspiration from his brow. He really had had a workout.

"My folks never had nuthin'," he reminisced. "Dad always dug in the mines. I never heard him complain about it. So why should I be all about doing something my own father did. I was younger and better able to do the work."

Mike is the perfect example of that old axiom: "Hard work never killed anybody."

For all his 13 full seasons of baseball he has never been sick a day, never missed a day's practice or a ball game and is as hardy today as anybody on the club.

GOOD HITTER

He's a husky Polish-American who can catch, pitch, play the infield, the outfield or manage a club. He's never had time to learn to drink or smoke cigarettes.

As a kid, he thumbed his way down to Johnstown, Pa., in 1925 to try out for the club Joe Cronin was playing shortstop for at the time. When he was with the Dayton club in 1928 he pitched against Lefty Grove.

He managed the Springfield, Mo., club for the Cards in '24. He managed Columbus in the American Association for a time and was part-time manager of the Rochester club last season.

He batted .356, .347 and .330 for three years in succession in the minors, pitching when he wasn't catching, and no major league ever gave him a tumble. He's a credit to the game, and an asset to any club, not only because of his ability and versatility but because of his team spirit.

Too bad the Sox didn't pick him up years ago.

Draft Near for Brown Bomber

CHICAGO, Feb. 26 (INS)—He's licked everybody once and now is starting around the circuit again so it might well be that he is just bored with it all, but there was no doubt Joe Louis was in the market today when he revealed he expects to be drafted within 90 days and added:

"I want to be a soldier. I'm proud of my country. It's been good to me, and I want to do my part now that it needs me."

The world's heavyweight boxing champion returned his question-

Phillies Read Riot Act to Tamulis

By Associated Press

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 26—Vito Tamulis, the Phillies' hold-out southpaw pitcher, can sign or sit out the season, according to President Gerry Nugent. "If he doesn't sign, that's up to him," said Nugent. "I don't intend to do anything more."

TAMPA, Fla.—Manager Bill McKechnie of the champion Cincinnati Reds is high on Monte Pearson, the former Yankee pitcher, and Monte is confident he will do all right with the National Leaguers. "I wouldn't be here, if I didn't think I could help McKechnie along," says Monte.

"I have plenty of good investment property in California, along with a paid-up annuity policy that will take care of me when I finally decide to quit."

PASADENA, Cal.—Manager Jimmy Dykes of the Chicago White Sox has banned ice skating (of all things) for his players and cautions them against too much bowling. Dykes is showing considerable interest in Rookie Pitchers Orval Grove and Jack Hallett, and plans to give them thorough tests in spring exhibitions.

HAVANA—Whitlaw Wyatt, who won 15 games for the Brooklyn Dodgers last season despite the handicap of a knee injury, promises to be even more effective this year. He gave the knee a real test in his first workout yesterday and showed no sign of limp. Wyatt said a couple of months rest after last season enabled him to get rid of the stiffness, and that he'll be able to take his normal stride this year and put a little more stuff on the ball.

ANHEIM, Cal.—Newspapermen at the Philadelphia Athletics' camp sensed a big story when Connie Mack shoved his chair back from the breakfast table and rushed from the room without a word. They cornered him in the lobby. Mack explained, "I'm just late for school. I promised to give those grammar school kids a talk. I almost forgot."

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla.—After watching his pitchers in 10-minute turns on the mound, Manager Billy Southworth predicted a "terrific fight" for places on the St. Louis Cardinals' mound corps. "We not only have many pitchers, but the great majority of them had great records last season," he said.

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla.—The sudden sale of Babe Dahlgren to the Boston Bees yesterday provided two interesting topics of conversation at the New York Yankees' camp. The consensus was that Dahlgren was sold because he had been a too-stubborn holdout this spring. With rookie Johnny Strum left as the only first baseman on the roster, guesses were that the Yanks were working on a deal for George McQuinn of the Browns, or that Outfielder Tommy Henrich or Second Baseman Joe Gordon would be converted into a first-sacker.

SAN BERNARDINO, Cal.—Rip Sewell, leading pitcher of the Pittsburgh Pirates, also is their catchers director. With the ball ground somewhat drier yesterday, the Bees went through two long drills, featuring exercises Sewell learned at military school. The team was glad to get a breathing spell when Rip finished.

SAN ANTONIO, Tex.—Chilly weather kept the St. Louis Browns under wraps yesterday, but it didn't slow the club's offices in St. Louis. From there came word five players had signed and were en route to camp. They were Outfielders Walt Judnich and Roberto Estalella; Infielders Harland Clift and John Lucadello, and Pitcher John Whitehead.

FORT MYERS, Fla.—Outfielder Roy Weatherly, who is demanding a two-year contract, now is officially a holdout, as he was missing from the Cleveland Indians' second squad that reported yesterday. Clarence (Soup) Campbell, who had permission to report late because he's recovering from flu, turned up on time with Hal Trosky.

AVALON, Cal.—The Chicago Cubs open their training camp today, but there're not scheduled for a workout until tomorrow. Eight of them remain unsigned, with Hank Leiber and Bill Lee likely to be the most stubborn holdouts.

SAN ANTONIO, Tex.—There's plenty of speculation about trades in the Boston Bees' camp since the acquisition of Babe Dahlgren gave them eight potential first basemen. Manager Casey Stengel indicated he's willing to talk terms for Buddy Hassett and Max West, but warned "the price for West is high."

Clapper's Penalties Costly to Bruins

After going 23 consecutive games and two months with nothing except victories and ties, the Boston Bruins finally ran into defeat. And, at the same time, they probably received a lesson on the value of Capt. Dit Clapper to their team.

The Bruins' record undefeated streak was ended last night by the New York Rangers, who set the previous record of 19 straight on their way to their 1940 Stanley Cup victory. The score was 2 to 0, and both Ranger goals were scored while Clapper was serving penalties in the third period.

The setback left the Bruins only two points—one full game—behind the league-leading Toronto Maple Leafs, as the crippled New York Americans came up with an amazing 4-4 tie against the pace-setters. That's practically the same as saying the Bruins and the Leafs are all even, for Boston has one more game left on its schedule than Toronto.

The Rangers outplayed most of the way, dropped their listless attitude in the third period when Clapper drew his first penalty for interfering with Neil Colville—or at least Babe Pratt suddenly became active. He charged into the Boston zone and passed to Lynn Patrick as he hit the defense.

Patrick shot, and Bryan Hextall sent home the rebound. Some three minutes later, with Clapper serving his second penalty, Pratt passed from the right, deep in Boston territory, and Dutch Hiller picked up the puck on the far side of the goal to soccer with a backhand shot.

The defeat was Boston's first since Dec. 21, when they lost to the Canadiens at Montreal, and the first on home ice since Nov. 26. The Rangers moved to within two points of the third-place Detroit Red Wings, who were idle.

Hooley Smith's 500th major league goal in 17 seasons of play, which put him into the class with Clapper and two other Americans, Harvey Jackson and Charlie Conacher, as active players who have reached the 50 mark, was the first highlight of the American-Toronto jamboree. Tar came in 51 seconds of play, and from there on it was a wide-open scoring match. The Americans went ahead four times, but could stay there.

Syl Apps, Toronto's high-scoring center, was hurt in the second period, tearing the cuticle in his left knee in a collision with Smith.

Auburn, Alabama Near Court Meeting

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Feb. 26 (AP)—Auburn and Alabama, who haven't been on speaking terms athletically since 1907, today appeared headed for their first meeting in 11 years during the Southeastern conference football tournament at Louisville, Ky., this weekend.

Alabama, favored over Georgia Tech in a first-round game, will encounter the Plainsmen if they get past Tech, Auburn drew bye.

ICE RACERS IN MEET AT SKATING CLUB

Speed skaters of New England who have competed in twenty outdoor meets since the winter under the sanction of the New England Skating Assoc. will bring the speed skating portion of the season to a close next Saturday night with a grand indoor New England championships meet at the rink of The Skating Club of Boston on Soldiers Field at Boston.

Conducted with the speed skating program will be figure skating exhibitions by Gretchen Merrill, Roberta Jones, Dorothy and Leslie Glazer, Edna Flint, Fay Kirby, Jacqueline Sawyer and Sylvia Van Ness, besides Dan Crocker and Fred Thompson.

Janet Brownman, the youngest speed skater in New England, only six years old, will also be one of the star attractions.

Caroline Landry, of Fitchburg, who recently won the North American and National women's championships, will compete with Beatrice Annan of Mendon, who won honors in the national indoor meet in Washington last Sunday and another outstanding skater Mary K. Finks of Worcester.

Leo Lavalle, of Providence, who holds the outdoor title in New England, will face John Roukema of Goshen, Maine, who has won every event in which he has entered this year.

Altogether there will be more than 50 of the fastest skaters in New England competing, and it will be a long evening of intense and exciting competition.

32 Fort Bliss Teeming With Star Athletes

EL PASO, Tex., Feb. 26 (AP)—Fort Bliss is looking like a coach's paradise these days. There's an athlete under every mesquite bush.

From almost any barracks of the Ft. Bliss anti-aircraft training center, with its 20,000 troops, it's possible to shake out an athlete of sizeable dimensions among the trainees from Illinois, Arkansas, the District of Columbia, Texas, New Mexico and way points.

The nod, however, goes to the 206th Coast Artillery, Arkansas National Guard, for what is probably the most remarkable athletic contingent ever to answer mess call in this man's army.

The 206th has a neat-corner on basketball with a ready-made quintet from Arkansas State College. This outfit, Battery C of Jonesboro, played together from junior high school days, annexed two Arkansas State championships, and now has topped its first game in the Regimental League, 77-12, from Fort Springs.

SOFT BALL CHAMPIONS

On hand also is the Little Rock softball team, twice Arkansas State champions.

From Arkansas Tech, Russellville, is about the entire football squad of 25 players including Captains Jim Rasmussen and Jim Keeton. Tech lost 104 men to Uncle Sam when the 206th was called to active duty.

With Tech's squad and Maj. W. H. (Bill) Wood, former coach at West Point to handle it, it is not hard to foresee some gridiron fancywork next fall. Maj. Wood recently arrived for duty at Ft. Bliss.

The 2024 Coast Artillery of Illinois (Chicago) has its share of basketball big-shots, including Harry Petratis, Olympic basketball star. Also playing on the Illinois regimental team is Pat Connolly, former Texas College of Mines hooper.

In boxing the 202nd contains Johnny Sowa, Chicago Golden Gloves champion, and Ross Barber, another Golden Glove and a member of the victorious C. Y. D. Hawaiian squad.

Among the pros, Billy Goetz, former welter wrestling champion, now a corporal with the 202nd, wrestles in El Paso most emporiums on nights off.

The 206th Coast Artillery of the District of Columbia has shopped up a first-rate ring team under the mentorship of Lt. George W. Boxer, former star athlete of Mississippi State. On the squad is Phillip Swanner, Golden Gloves heavyweight finalist; Eddie Saugstad and George Trupp—all well known in Washington rings.

There are others—plenty of them—and generally, it's possible to report that the boys who kept the folks cheering back home are doing all right in the olive-drab of Uncle Sam's Army.

9-Man Team Court Plan Is Blasted

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark., Feb. 26 (INS)—Basketball, the national winter pastime, is all right the way it is, according to Dr. Glen Rose of the University of Arkansas, who today offered his view on the subject recently submitted by Coach F. C. (Phog) Allen, Kansas, who advocates nine-man teams and courts one-third larger to make the game a "crowd catcher."

Such changes would tend to destroy the "democracy" of the game, Coach Rose said.

"By 'democracy,' I refer to the fact that basketball is the one team game in which small schools really have some chance to compete on even terms with larger schools," continued the mentor of the Southwest Conference champion Razorbacks.

Rose, whose team is a ranking favorite to win the national collegiate championship this season, continued:

"Even a very small school usually has five boys capable of playing good basketball and generally a substitute or two can be found," he said. "Enlarge the team to nine members, however, and many smaller schools would be forced to drop from inter-scholastic competition."

POSTPONE DOG TRIALS

GRAND JUNCTION, Tenn., Feb. 26 (AP)—Rain left the fields boggy today, forcing the morning run of the national field trials to be postponed until afternoon and setting back the rest of the schedule by half a day. Prospects were for another postponement in the afternoon.

Mr. Boston Says:

Interested in a heavyweight bout as they are in the coming tussle between Louis and Conn. During my trips throughout the South and in Florida, hundreds of people have asked my opinion as to the probable outcome of the tussle in which Louis will risk his championship against Conn.

Perhaps the wish is father to the thought, but most persons I have talked with believe Conn has an excellent chance to win. The Conn admirers even overlook the fact the Pittsburgh contender will be spotting Louis 25 pounds. Louis has weighed a bit over 200 pounds in his recent bouts, while Conn has been unable to build up his weight to a point where he scales more than 175 pounds.

Conn's confidence in himself has become contagious. For over a year he will be telling those people who would listen to him that he will beat Louis. He considers the "Brown Bomber" a very much overrated fighter.

Conn points out that Louis was fortunate to come to the front at a time when there is a dearth of first class heavyweights. Due to this condition Louis has been obliged to take on second and third raters whom he has not had any difficulty defeating.

While most of Louis' bouts have been one-sided affairs, he has not earned the money he would have if he had top flight opponents. Louis personally wishes there were some great heavyweights around whom he could meet.

In this way he believes he could convince even the Doubting Thomases that he rates with Jack Dempsey as a champion, while he would make more money in one or two such matches than he does in a dozen of the variety he is obliged to accept on account of the lack of suitable opponents. Tunney received $369,000 for his Chicago bout with Dempsey.

Louis will get $200,000 out of his bout with Conn as the match will draw $500,000. Joe believes that his fists of iron will enable him to knock out Conn.

"Conn is too tall to bob and weave or get into a crouch," Louis told me. "He must stand up straight, and punch at me. Billy isn't a hard hitter, while I have proved I can knock out anyone I can hit. I don't see how I can miss catching up with Conn."

Gabby Hartnett Laughing Boy Of Giant Squad

MIAMI, Feb. 26 (AP)—Without much doubt the happiest athlete in the Giants' training camp is Charles Leo (Gabby) Hartnett, 40, the man who had to lose his job to win back his nickname, "Laughing Boy."

Gabby is back now doing what he loves to do best and what he never should have let them stop him from doing. He is catching baseball again, and those who ran into him at various times during the last few years while he was managing the Chicago Cubs will be glad to know that the cure seems complete.

He is the old Gabby, so full of pep and hustle and general good spirits that he is about to work himself into a 200-pound shadow. His salary probably is less than half what it was last year, and he is only second-string catcher to Harry Danning, but he goes around grinning like a guy with a tax-free pass to the mint.

REAL PEPPER POT

The old Hartnett yell and chatter is the first thing a visitor to Miami field hears. He is whooping and hallooing as he handles the pitchers in batting practice, and his honest face gleams like a full moon as he circles under pop fumes. The fans kid him and he kids back.

When they finally chase him out from behind the plate to give somebody else a chance he trots out on second base with his big mitt and fields a few grounders. He had shed 15 pounds before he reported here and he'll probably be that much more off before the season starts at this rate.

Gabby's friends need not feel bad about his losing the Chicago job. Though he won a pennant in 1933 and proved himself a capable manager from a technical standpoint, the position appeared to weigh on him mentally and affected his grand disposition. The change that came over him in 1939, the "year after his crushing World Series defeat by the Yankees, was a topic of grievous conversation in baseball circles.

But that episode is over now, and the big fellow is back in harness and happy. He doesn't have to give any interviews or discipline any players or do anything except catch. It looks like his special job will be to catch Slim Melton, the towering left-hander, with whom he works daily, but he also will see action in double-headers and generally take the load off the overworked Danning.

BROKE RECORD IN '39

Every game he catches will break the big league record for number of games caught by one catcher. He broke the previous record in 1939, and at the close of 1940 had a total of 1756 games caught in his credit. He also holds the record of 452 consecutive chances without an error, and he led all other catchers in the National League in fielding percentage seven times.

A dozen seasons he caught in 100 or more games, and right now he looks like he could make it 13.

NOVIKOFF YET TO PROVE HE'S BIG LEAGUER

CHICAGO, Feb. 26 (AP)—The baseball-hungry public has been devouring choice tidbits all winter in papers and periodicals about eccentric Lou Novikoff, but the ever-skeptical fans still don't know if he's a big league ball player.

He isn't far from being the most noted rookie who ever graduated to the major leagues. The customers have been told Lou sings a captivating baritone, plays a mean harmonica, spurns vaudeville offers to concentrate on baseball, bats better when he is mad and lauds on bad pitches as well as grooved ones.

But the one unanswered and burning question is: Can the 25-year-old Russian hit big league pitching? He has been built up as a super-hitter who can hit anything within reach; the tales coming out of the minors regarding his batting eye are fabulous and endless. But what will he do when he faces Bucky Walters, Paul Derringer, Lon Warneke, etc?

Novikoff in many ways earned the buildup. He led the Pacific Coast League last year in batting with a .363 mark and topped the circuit in home runs, runs batted in, runs scored, total hits and total bases. He previously had led the Texas and Three-Eye Leagues in batting and ranked second in the Western Association with a .351 average.

But these figures are particularly impressive to Cub fans who have seen three champion sluggers of the minors fail to prove big league pitching in the past five years. Joe Marty was the Coast League batting champion at .359 in 1936. But in a Cub uniform he never reached .300, finally going to the Phillies in a trade.

The next year Coaker Triplett came up from the Southern Association with a fancy .356 mark. He lasted 12 games before being shipped to the American Association.

Last year Dominic Dallesandro made his Cub debut after topping Coast League batters with a .368 average in 1935. Dominic hit .265 last season. He still may make the grade, but Cub fans have sound reason for adopting a "show me" attitude.

Novikoff, the most unpredictable character to hit the big time since Dixie Dean emerged from the cotton fields, apparently has no fears of failure. He was not exactly overjoyed at the salary offered by the Cubs and hasn't yet signed.

B. C. Six Wins N. E. Crown

Boston College's hockey team clinched the New England Intercollegiate League title for the second year in a row by turning back Northeastern, 11-5, at the Arena last night.

Boston University beat Massachusetts Institute of Technology, 9-5, for its fifth victory in eight starts. In the second game of a double-header, Johnny Chambers stood out for the Terriers with six goals.

Four Teams Entered In Eastern Tilt

GLENS FALLS, N. Y., Feb. 26 (AP)—Four teams have announced they will compete in the 22nd annual Eastern States Scholastic Basketball Tournament March 27-29.

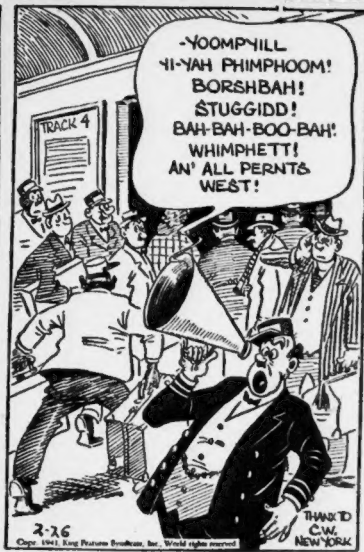

They are Durham, N. C. High School, defending champion; Blair Academy, Blairstown, N. J., undefeated in 2 games; Edward Little High School, Auburn, Me., also unbeaten, and LaSalle Military Academy, Oakdale, L. I. Four more teams will be invited.

Harvard-Yale Crew Race on June 14

The annual Harvard-Yale crew race on the Thames river, New London, Ct., will be staged on June 14, one week ahead of its original date to avoid conflict with a cruise of the naval R. O. T. C.

Director of Harvard Athletics William Bingham said today that six members of the Crimson's first three crews leave with the R. O. T. C. on June 15.

An improved Harvard basketball team plays a Boston University quintet, which is rated tops, in the Boston area, in a traditional contest at the Harvard gym this evening. The strong frosh of the rival colleges will play a preliminary engagement.

The fine Harvard swimming team, nipped by Princeton, 40-35, for its first defeat of the season, will be host this evening to the powerful Springfield splashers who have one of the best teams in New England.

CRIMSON MEETS ARMY

In other contests for Harvard athletes today, the varsity hockey team will meet Army at the Garden at 8 o'clock, the freshman track squad will go to Andover for a triangular meet with Andover and the Dartmouth freshman.

Boston University is generally regarded as having the best material of any hoop team in the Hub area. The Collardmen have produced one of the finest teams in history, having averaged 49 points per game in their 12 contests to date.

The Springfield swimmers are one of the classic small college outfits of recent years and are slated to give Harvard a real battle. The Gymnasie have an outstanding medley trio in Hatch, Antilla and Pincombe. Other real stars on the invading mermen are Beck and Lotz in the sprints and Smyke and Leech.

ARMY TEAM FAVORED

Coach Clark Hodder has made no changes in his hockey lineup, which will be after its second win of the season this evening at the expense of the invading Soldiers. The only other time the two rivals took the ice was in 1931 when Harvard crushed the West Point team 10-0. Army is favored to settle an old account this evening.

Hatlo ANGEL MEETS GREEN DRAGON ON ARENA MAT

Wrestling's newest bad-man, the Green Dragon, will attempt to strip the 276-pound Angel of his world's championship in the main event of Paul Bower's grappling tournament at the Arena tonight.

The Angel, undefeated in more than a year, will have one of the most severe tests of his career in this match.

The Mystery man has been a consistent winner here since his first appearance four months ago. The Green Dragon has determined to step into the crown by any possible means.

And The Dragon will be rough. There is not the slightest question about that. He has been coached by Charley Strack, the Oklahoman, for about a half year, and Strack, who is a master at the bad man business has taught The Dragon everything he knows about it.

The Angel will have weight and strength in his favor, which are two major advantages in a wrestling match.

The Dragon has spent several days of stiff practice for the match and Strack says his man is in the best shape of his life.

"I've watched The Angel several times and when I first met this Dragon I said, 'There's the man who can beat him.' We'll see if I'm right, and I know my wrestling pretty well by this time."

In the semifinal, which should be a sizzler, Big Ben Morgan, 320-pound Texas giant, clashes with Charley Strack. This should be one that will cause the ringsiders to seek the storm cellar.

In a special event, Angelo Cicoldi, rough Italian, meets Tommy O'Toole, sensational Irishman.

NOTICE THOSE JACKETS?—Casey Stengel (left) and Manuel Salvo have their windbreakers tightly zippered right up to their chins in this San Antonio photo. Chill winds, rain, mud, gloomy skies are about all the Bees have seen so far in their Texas camp. But Case seems cheerful as he looks Salvo over. Why not? Manuel, 6 foot 4 flinger, had earned run mark of 3.07 last year, Bees' best. He expects better mark this season.

M'Laughry Picks Young Staff

HANOVER, N. H., Feb. 26 (AP)—De Ormond "Tuss" McLaughry, now Dartmouth football coach, announced the appointment of his staff, bringing to the Indians four newcomers, all under 30 years of age.

McLaughry, who succeeded "Red" Blaik when the latter went to West Point, said Bill Bevan, for five years assistant coach at Tulane, and George Barclay, of Oberlin College, would handle the line, and Charles Ewart, of Yale, and Dick Cassiano, who has been with the Brooklyn Dodgers professional eleven, would direct the backfield.

McLaughry said Johnny Handrahan, an assistant under Blaik, and Osborne Cowles, freshman coach, would be retained.

In announcing his selections, McLaughry said it was "a staff of youth packed with valuable experience."

Cassiano, who was a member of the famous Pittsburgh "dream backfield," is only 23, and Ewart, who was backfield coach at Wesleyan last fall, is 25. Ewart is regarded as one of the East's best teachers of punting.

Both Bevan, a graduate of Minnesota in 1935, and Barclay, North Carolina captain in 1935, are under 30, McLaughry said.

Kaplan Bids For Title Go In Bout Here

News from New York today was that Mike Kaplan's fight at the Boston Garden Friday night with Vic Delicurti is a highly important test for the Roxbury welterweight title contender. If Kaplan wins convincingly he will be immediately matched to fight Fritz Zivic for the 147-pound crown in mid-March at a site to be selected by Joe Jacobs.

Jacobs sent word that he hopes to be at ringside at the Boston Garden Friday night to see Kaplan in action and to sign him at the finish to fight Zivic. Kaplan hopes to put on a show for Jacobs, or the representative of the Jacobs' organization who will be on hand to take notes.

Kaplan, in fact, will settle for nothing but a knockout win over Delicurti. Merry Mike is not a K. O. puncher by trade, but such a sharp, jolting hitter that he may land enough leather to stop Delicurti before the 10-round limit is reached.

Delicurti is one of the most highly regarded fighters in Gotham. He's a tough, two-fisted gent and not easily hurt. Kaplan will have his hands full and may need one of his very best fights to escape humiliation. It would be a tragedy for Merry Mike to be upset by Delicurti, because Kaplan is on the verge of a championship fight. He missed beating Zivic by a split decision in Philadelphia last summer and is confident he could beat him and strip him of his title in a return bout.

UNANIMOUS APPROVAL

Bob Quinn Lauded For Dahlgren Deal

By BILL GRIMES

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., Feb. 26—During his 50 years in baseball, Pres. Quinn of the Bees may have put across a deal, which topped the purchase of Babe Dahlgren from the New York Yankees. But, in the years that he owned the Red Sox and since he has been charge d'affaires at National League field, Bob Quinn never closed a deal which caused as many favorable comments as the one which brought Babe Dahlgren to the Bees.

Bob Quinn has been sweet on Babe Dahlgren for years. When Tom Yawkey purchased Jimmy Foxx, the Sox tried to waive Babe Dahlgren out of the American League. Bob Quinn refused to waive, until he was tipped off that if he didn't allow the waivers to go through that they'd be recalled. Then, there was nothing he could do but recall his bid for Dahlgren.

During a long distance telephone conversation with Manager Casey Stengel from San Francisco, Babe Dahlgren told his new boss that he was delighted to get back to Boston, where he started his big league career.

BABE DAHLGREN

"You can believe me, Casey, when I say," declared Dahlgren, "that I'm glad to get back to Boston. In fact, I'm delighted. It's a great break for me for I've hundreds of friends in the Hub, who, despite the fact that I left the Red Sox five years ago, still pull for me."

"I know that to be a fact by the fine receptions I received at Fenway Park while playing for the Yankees."

"I'm very well satisfied with the terms of the contract which President Quinn offered me. And, if you say the word, I'll fly out of here tonight and will be in camp on Thursday. You may rest assured that I'll give the Bees the best I have and I honestly believe that I'll be able to help your club."

Manager Stengel told Dahlgren to spend a couple of more days at home before starting for camp. Babe will probably report one week from today and he'll be ready for action for he's working out daily in San Francisco.

Good Target for Infielders

Without a single exception, everyone who has been interviewed by your operative concerning the coming of the former Yankee first sacker to the Bees is of the same opinion. Babe will help the Stengeles. The scribes were unanimous that Bob Quinn made a ten strike, and it must be a great deal if they all agree that it is, for the experts seldom agree unanimously on anything, even the Texas weather.

The players were elated, particularly Eddie Miller, who realizes that he'll have the best target he has ever fired at in the National League over at the initial sack.

Although he appreciates that the coming of Babe Dahlgren means that his close pal and roomie Buddy Hassett is in grave danger of moving on, Sailor Bill Posedel was much enthusiastic over what the deal would do for the Bees.

"Say, we'll have the best infield in the National League," declared Posedel, "in fact, I don't believe there's an inner defense in the American League that can compare with ours."

"It's going to help us pitchers," continued the sailor. "Can you imagine opponents hitting safely anywhere between Sibby Sisti, Eddie Miller, Bama Rowell and Babe Dahlgren? They can all move around plenty fast and they can't miss being the class of the league."

Before he left the Coast, Casey Stengel told Max West that he (West) would be the Bees' first sacker this season. At that time, of course, Casey did not have the slightest idea that he would have Babe Dahlgren. With the acquisition of Dahlgren, Slapsie Maxie will be moved back into the outfield. As to which field Max will be assigned Casey Stengel refused to say.

Ross Will Be Moved to Centerfield

It may come to pass that Chet Ross will be given a thorough try-out in center field, for in Manager Stengel's opinion West is at his best when he plays left field, which was held down by Chet Ross a year ago. Last season Stengel tried to sell Ross on the idea of playing center field but without success. He'll probably take the bull by the horns this spring and order the Buffalo boy to show him whether or not he's capable of covering the middle outer garden.

When queried on the subject of any more trades, Casey Stengel refused to commit himself. "We are out to strengthen the Bees," commented Ole Case, "but we will not do any business unless we are fully satisfied that we're getting the best of trade. We are out to get a real hall club for Boston, and we know that if we can show the New England fans that we have a hustling club, we get the patronage."

"There's no manager in either major league that likes young ball players as much as I do. And, there's no one who'll be more patient with kids, or stay with them as long. And, I'm confident that we are stronger and better fortified with worthwhile replacements than at any time since I've been with the club."

"We're doing all right. And, that little fellow up there in Boston is the best trader in baseball. I only wish that he had a drag with the Texas weatherman."

YANKEES MAY TRY TO BUY FOXX FROM SOX

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., Feb. 26 (AP)—The New York Yankees' sale of Ellsworth (Babe) Dahlgren, their regular first baseman since May, 1929, to the Boston Bees for an unannounced sum of cash, came as a complete surprise in the Yanks' camp.

product who has had no big league experience, to play first base. Sturm is a good fielder and has hit well in the American Association, compiling a .312 average for Kansas City last year.

Baseball writers in the camp believe, however, that the Yankees would seek another experienced first baseman, either as a regular or as protection. To suggestions that Tommy Henrich might be converted from an outfielder into a first sacker or that the Yanks would try to make a trade for an experienced major leaguer such as Jimmy Foxx of the Red Sox or Doc McGuire of the Browns, McCarthy refused to give any definite reply.

GIRL BECOMES SKIING EXPERT IN SHORT TIME

By TAP GOODENOUGH

Skating only but a couple of times each year for the past few years, she now swoops with birdlike ease down an open slope or traverses in icy trail at streamlined speed. . . . Recently passing the USEASA certification tests for instructor, which more than half of the aspirants fail, this tall, slim blonde and bronzed girl is now one of only five women ski teachers in the country who are certified. A shining exponent, indeed, of the fair sex on skis is Marion ("Pete") McCoomb of the famous Franconia, N. H. Ski School.

This charming lass would rather ski than eat, but she is very much amazed by the fact that she has become a full-fledged instructor in such short time. "I've been awfully lucky," Marion told us as we rolled through the Notch in her beach wagon. But when her ability rather than luck that took her to the top.

Marion first received lessons in skiing at the Eastern Slopes Ski School under Hannes Schneider, with Frans Kessler and Little Rachel imparting the technique. She worked hard and soon entered the advanced classes. The challenge of the North Country called her this season and she decided to take a job of some sort in the mountains. Here fate in the form of Peter Gabriel, head of the Franconia Ski School, intervened. Marion met this maestro in New York and he signed her on the dotted line, primarily to teach children. Now "Pete" instructs people of all ages, from seven to seventy.

Admitting she isn't a racer, Marion skis with grace, control, and fine form, always relaxed. She shifted from the so-called Alpbah technique to the Swiss style with finesse, and she loves it. A natural athlete and good dancer, Marion plays tennis well, swims, golfs, and rides horseback, even trying to be a basketball player. She delights in flying, and goes up in a plane at every chance she gets. She even excels at ping pong.

This versatile gal does a great deal of oil painting in the summer. Her sense of color causes her to stop when running a trail to look at the scenery. Marion wears striking ski outfit which fit her personality. She radiates style with every step—a stylist on skis. . . . And she possesses a grand sense of humor, sadly lacking in some ski instructors. Here is a girl doing a man's work and doing it well.

SKI SCOOPS

There is a strong possibility that the new lift atop Cannon Mountain, delayed in construction for want of materials, may start to convey skiers—two at a time—next Saturday. . . . The T bar, or "He-She sticks," will be painted red, white and blue. A grand opening may be held above the clouds and the tow christened with a bottle of "champagne" (spring water). . . . This long-awaited lift will give access to late spring skiing.

Under the guidance of Sel Hain, six stalwart lads are going to sidestep and work on the Taff trail, hoping to get the famous course in shape for next week-end so that the USEASA Eastern downhill and slalom championships can be contested in connection with the 11th annual Hochregenge team races. This will constitute the biggest ski meet in the East
